WE PRESENT

In preparing an annual it is useless to attempt to chronicle the events of the year, no matter how bright the pictures nor how glittering the words, without showing something of the problems, the triumphs, the school spirit, all of the unforgettable little things that make the years in high school the glorious memories that they become.

Consequently, we have tried to make this annual not only a record of the year but also a memory book in which each page speaks in telling its part of the story.

But behind the tale of one school year there also lies another and much longer story. A story that came about as the realization of a dream and as the result of a great deal of hard work and sincere effort.

That story began 25 years ago, in January, 1917, when the present Salem High school building, this year celebrating its silver anniversary, was formally opened and students took their seats in its classrooms for the first time, students who were to be followed by hundreds of other students throughout the next quarter of a century. But that is part of the story we shall tell in the following pages. . . .

Let us merely state here that in presenting the 1942 Quaker, we pay tribute to the present Salem High school building on its silver anniversary and on the successful completion of 25 years of service to the community, for we feel that such a record of accomplishment cannot be recognized too highly.

And in later years, when our school days have become but a faint memory, and graver cares than books and friendships weigh heavily upon our minds, when perhaps another 25 years have passed and our cherished ambitions have become pleasant realities or have been completely shattered, may this year-book, itself marking the close of a 25-year period, serve to recall happy hours, days of common efforts, and treasured friendships in Salem High.

GRADUATION

To You

Frederick Cope

we dedicate this annual. As faculty manager of athletics, the excellent work you have done has put Salem High on the athletic map; as a teacher, you have gained the enviable reputation of being one of the most able and well-liked members of our faculty; as a dedicatee for our annual, we feel you fulfill all the exacting requirements that should govern the selection of a dedicatee for an anniversary number; and, above all, as a friend, your guidance and comradeship are highly treasured by all who know you.

Therefore, we take great pleasure in dedicating the 1942 Quaker annual to you.

WE HONOR

In honoring Salem High school on its silver anniversary we also pay tribute to two members of the faculty who have this year completed a record of service and accomplishment that is as deserving of honor and appreciation as the record of the school itself.

For 1942 marks the 25th year that Miss Ethel Beardmore and Mr. R. W. Hilgendorf have been members of the Salem High faculty.

Miss Beardmore and Mr. Hilgendorf joined the Salem High faculty when the present high school opened in 1917 and from that time on, until the present day, they have rendered such excellent service to the community and students of Salem and worked with such sincere effort both in their daily tasks as teachers and in their positions as advisers that we have made them honorary dedicatees of the 1942 Quaker annual.

We feel that this honor, insignificant and humble as it is in view of the great tribute that Miss Beardmore and Mr. Hilgendorf deserve is the best means we have of showing our appreciation and gratitude for the help, the advice and, above all, the capable instruction that it has been our privilege to receive from them.

And so, with profound admiration and respect in our hearts and the heartiest of congratulations in our minds for their remarkable accomplishment, we proudly announce Miss Beardmore and Mr. Hilgendorf as the honorary dedicatees for the 1942 Quaker annual.

The 1942 Quaker Annual Presents A Quarter Of A Century Of Progress

On January 2, 1917, a day of special significance in the history of Salem public education, approximately 298 high school students, returning to school after their Christmas vacation, entered a brand new high school building, that had just been completed at a cost of $200,000. That building, which was used for the first time when those students excitedly entered it in 1917, is the same high school in use at present, and this year it is concluding its first 25 years of educating and preparing Salem boys and girls for the future.

The faculty of Salem High school, when the new building was opened, consisted of 16 members, headed by John S. Alan, Superintendent of Schools, and Frank W. Lease, Principal. All of the members of the faculty had transferred directly from the old high school on Fourth Street pictured below to the new building.

When the new high school was built, it was sorely needed. And it came mainly as the result of the efforts of two men, Mr. Alan and Mr. Lease. For in their positions as superintendent and principal, respectively, they realized the dire need for a larger and better equipped high school, and they gave unselfishly of their time and effort in working to remedy this need.

LEADERS - THRU THE YEARS

Pictured above are the past superintendent and principals that have served in the present Salem High School building. At the extreme left of the top row is Mr. J. S. Alan, the superintendent who was in charge of Salem Schools when this building was erected. He is the only superintendent, other than Mr. Kerr, who has served in the new school. The other men are all past principals.

THRU THE YEARS

When Mr. Frank Lease took charge of the new high school as principal in 1917, he unfortunately was destined to work in it only five short months. For during the summer of 1917 he was shot and fatally wounded. His tragic death came as a shock to the student body and faculty and N. E. Pettibone was engaged to replace him.

Pettibone held the office of principal for two years, from 1917 to 1919, and then was followed by Karl E. Whinnery. Whinnery also headed the Salem High faculty for two years, giving way to C. M. Rohrabough in 1921.

Rohrabough served as principal from 1921 to 1925 and in 1925 W. F. Simpson came to Salem High and remained until 1928.

In 1928, Wilbur J. Springer was hired by the school board and remained for eight years, the longest period served by any of the past principals. It was during this period also, in 1931, that John S. Alan, who had been superintendent throughout the entire life of the new school, died and was replaced by E. S. Kerr, present superintendent.

In 1936, Springer left Salem High and his place was taken by Harold M. Williams who held the position until this year when he resigned to accept a position in Youngstown.

Williams' place was taken by B. G. Ludwig, present principal, who is serving his first term in that office this year.

Shown above are the teachers who served on the Salem High school faculty during the 1917-18 school year.

Twenty Five Years

Is not so long when measured by the span of time but it is certainly a milestone in the life of an educational institution. Some of the greatest achievements in educational history have taken place during the past 25 years and in the community of Salem, educational progress and Salem High school are synonymous.

Today we proudly look back on the steady steps of progress made and point out the outstanding achievements of our high school.

Now, as we honor Salem High on this silver anniversary, we look forward to a brilliant and even more successful future and join unanimously in a hearty wish that when another 25 years have passed our high school may once again look back upon a quarter of a century of continual progress as a public servant devoted to the application of the principles and purposes of modern education.

IN THE

Classroom

25 Years Ago

The faculty of Salem High had only 16 members and these teachers taught a total of only 19 different subjects. There were several vocational courses but the idea of teaching such things as sewing, cooking, metal industries, mechanical drawing and similar courses had not yet been fully developed in the minds of educators.

As we look back at the faculty and curriculum of a quarter of a century ago, and compare them to the present, the rapid growth of Salem High can readily be seen as proof of the fact that it has kept pace with the developments of modern education.

Our faculty at present includes 33 instructors and almost 50 different courses are offered, including all subjects that are considered desirable or essential for the students of today and many new complete departments undeveloped 25 years ago.

And now, having paused here briefly to compare the faculty of 1917 with that of today, we now present the directors, administrators and instructors who make up the faculty of Salem High School.

Left to right, top to bottom: Mr. Ludwig helps to advertise the pep rally . . . looks as though Mr. Keller has his eye on something . . . the cameraman catches Mr. Henning by surprise . . . Bob Ritchie and Mr. Cobbs show that they're the best of pals . . . Miss McCarthy explains . . . happy smiles at the end of another day . . . Miss Beardmore pins an announcement on the bulletin board . . . Salem High's "Big Three" in sports . . . a scene at the faculty "Gay '90c" party.

Salem Board Of Education

President - F. P. Mullins
Vice-president - A. E. Beardmore
Clerk - G. F. Koontz

It seems to be a general opinion that, although the Board of Education has direct control of Salem High school and its activities, the students do not know very much about these men in whose hands rests the responsibility for their education. Actually, however, this is not true.

For, the students in Salem High do know who the members of the Board of Education are and they know the board members are all prominent citizens selected by the people of Salem to direct the education in Salem schools because of their recognized ability.

Each student has direct contact with the board and its policies every day, for the thorough going curriculum, the well-developed extra-curricular program and the modern supplies and equipment provided for the use of the students are all direct results of the board's efforts.

Although all the students of Salem High may not be fortunate enough to know each board member personally, the fine work done by the board is recognized and appreciated by every member of the student body and, consequently, an intimate association actually does exist between the students and the Board of Education.

To The Class of 1942:

On leaving High school you will enter a war-torn world—a world most of whose people are tense and worried. With our country fighting for its life, you are called to do all within your power to help in every way.

Through twelve years of schooling you have had opportunity to come into some knowledge of the heritage of freedom. In addition to helping with your hands, we are depending on you to assist with the important work of maintaining the morale of our people by thinking straight.

E. S. KERR,
Superintendent

They Solve Our Educational Problems

To the Class of 1942:

Our country offers every one of its boys and girls the opportunity to acquire twelve years of free education. No other nation in the world is so generous. You saw fit to accept this invaluable gift. You are to be congratulated for meeting the requirements for high school graduation. I know that all of you have learned some lessons better than others, but I hope that you have learned and will not forget the lesson of self-reliance. As you leave Salem High School you have my very best wish for health, happiness, and success in your chosen field.

25 Years Ago

The student body of Salem High totalled 316 boys and girls. The freshman class was the largest of all, claiming 97 members. Then came the juniors with 76, the sophomores with 75 and the seniors with 68.

The activities of the classes were strikingly similar to many of those of the present day. Each class elected class officers, chose class colors, sponsored parties, purchased class pins, and participated in various others of the activities that are as much a part of Salem High classes as the school itself.

Although at present we have a student body of 900 students, a graduating class of 185, and one class of over 220 members, it is evident that the high school students of 25 years ago were the same friendly, sincere, typically American young men and women that are found in the classrooms of Salem High today.

GRADUATION

Are Now Behind Them

Four Years in Salem High School

President - Ben Ware

Vice-president - Homer Asmus

Secretary-treasurer - Lois Hoover

Led by Rita Pottorf, Lois Field and Alyse Kuniewicz as the three highest honor graduates, 185 members of the Class of 1942 have now come up successfully through four years of hard effort and finally reached the long-awaited day of graduation ready to bid a fond farewell to their alma mater and leave room in these halls for classes yet to come.

In their memorable first year, the months passed swiftly with the more important events, such as the pencil sales, the first election of officers, the initiation on Hallowe'en, and the Freshman-Sophomore party following closely one upon the other until suddenly the realization came that the class members were no longer freshmen, but members of the Class of '42, now ready to make its mark in the history book of Salem High as sophomores. For already one year had gone, one year filled with events and activities that as time went on were to become the first of the store of pleasant memories that later they would recall as their high school days.

As sophomores they began to distinguish themselves, individually and as a class. In athletics, in music, in clubs, in every activity open to its members, the Class of '42 was well represented. Small felt pennants were sold to raise money. At the end of the year came their second Freshman-Sophomore party.

Then in September, 1940, a new word was heard. A pleasant word, with a resounding ring. "Upperclassmen." Two years were behind them now, and they were juniors.

The year started off with a bang when the starting lineups for the football games were found to contain from two to four juniors at every game. Next, the class went on to place one of the largest groups in the band that has ever represented any class. In basketball, the entire starting lineup for the last several games was composed solely of juniors.

Near the end of the year came the biggest event of all, the junior play, "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair".

This year, their last in Salem High, was a year of continual success for class members. In the senior play "Our Town and in all clubs and activities they continued their record of achievement.

And so, as we now present the Class of '42, we hail it for the records it has made and the things it has accomplished, and for these things the Class of 1942 will be long remembered.

GRADUATION

present Salem High School building.

To the Class of '42:

During four of the most turbulent years in the history of man, you, the 1942 graduating class of Salem High school, have plodded along, faithfully absorbing your studies. Without fanfare or glory, you have prepared yourselves in the obscurity of the erupting world for the part that you must play in the trying years to come.

While you have been hard at work studying a vocational or pre-college course, you seniors have rubbed elbows with people from all walks of life, an invaluable experience. Because of the small size of our school, you students have been able to have a more intimate association with faculty members only too willing to give advice or discuss your courses. Through our modern library and workshops you have benefited greatly and items which might easily have been overlooked in the rush of our daily lives were brought to light by attractive bulletin boards and showcases prepared by the departments, and through special features in the Quaker Weekly, a student publication. Musicians in your class are numerous also, presenting just another activity in the diversified background of the 1942 class.

And so, as you now leave Salem High from the faculty and the rest of the student body comes a hearty farewell to you, the Class of '42. "Good-bye and good luck."

The Class of 1943 seems to have adopted breaking traditions as its favorite extra curricular activity. For this most unusual and resourceful class has put more students on the A and B honor roll, has taken more prizes in athletics, literary and musical contests, and has caused more ruffling of feathers than any other class.

The trouble all started when this year's juniors were mere freshmen and Virginia Snyder had the seemingly radical wish to play a drum in the band. It had never been done before, but Jinny didn't let conventions stop her. She is now the first girl drummer in the band's history.

Never before has the Quaker Weekly had a junior for editor-in-chief. That is, not until the 1942 juniors got into action. Mary Byers was selected for this post and is the only girl to hold the position since 1937. Herb Hansell, also a junior, had the distinction of being the second junior ever to be editor of the Quaker Annual.

A star-lit prom jumped right out of heaven this year and into the laps of the junior committee in charge. Dripping with stardust, this affair was something new in two respects: it was not preceded by the annual banquet furnished by the juniors and this prom was the first in Salem High for which the funds were spent on securing an outstanding band. This is the first year that any such plan has been tried, much less on the entire initiative of the class members and officers.

Some may argue that the merits of this class lie in its high enrollment, yet the number of students, 225, exceeds that of the freshman and sophomore classes by only seven. Still, on a percentage basis, more juniors are listed in school activities than from any other class.

Versatile juniors are greatly interested in music as testified by the largest class representation in the High school band. Twenty-eight musicians are listed in that organization. Again showing their superiority, a number of juniors also participated in the state solo and ensemble contest in the spring at Columbus.

Of the four drum majorettes chosen this year, three were juniors. They are Janet Taylor, Anna Mae Helman and Jackie Brown. Of the five cheerleaders, three, Anne Cosgarea, Margaret Fargus and Agnes Kamasky, were juniors.

Junior class officers: Paul Evans, vice-president; Marian Davidson, secretary-treasurer; Dick Culberson, president.

Jones, Hill Holloway, Kenst, Hunter, Atkinson, Fisher, Berger, Lantz, McNicol, Gross, Hansell.

On the regular debate team this year which went to the state semi-finals were juniors Herb Hansell and Ruth Sinsley. This is Hansell's third year on the squad.

In all sports in Salem High, tennis, football, track, and basketball, junior boys have been active and, while giving preference to the seniors in this field, all indications point to an active sports season next year when the many junior athletes come into their own, although even this year, the various coaches have depended heavily upon juniors.

Class of 1943

The basketball teams listed juniors Dick Culberson, Harry Ehrhart, Lawrence Frost, Dick Lantz and Ed Fisher, all of whom will be mainstays of next year's team, while the juniors who played important parts in the track picture were Bill Beardmore, Frank Snyder, John Hart, Bob McNicol, Walter Krauss, Albert Kenst, Art Schultz, Clarke Dinsmore, John Taflan, Gordon Shasteen, Dan Oana, Don Beeler, Art Scheib, Frank Lutz, Herbert Wilker, Bill Shoop, Anton Hrvatin, Glenn Weigand, Dick Culberson, Harry Ehrhart and Perry Whitacre.

Volio, Snyder, Null, Scheib, Vansickle, Moore, Wiggers, Stiffler, Stoudt, Schultz, Pales, Schuster, Reardon, Whitacre, Thomas, Ritchie, Reynolds, Weigand.

Scholastically, the Class of '43 probably rates as high as any junior class ever has, for the junior home rooms are full of honor students, a surprisingly large number of whom have perfect records of no semester B's whatsoever.

Three juniors were among the members of the orchestra: Gene McArtor, Virginia Hanna, and Fred Krauss; and four juniors represented the class on the library staff: Deborah Gross, Louise Hanna, Jeannette Hutchison, and Gene McArtor.

On March 26 and 27, the class presented "Ever Since Eve," its first dramatic production, to the public. The members of the cast were: Virginia Snyder, Howard Coy, Ruth Sinsley, Irene Fratila, Dan Reardon, Dorothy Haldi, Paul Evans, Herbert Hansell, Fred Krauss, Bob Moore, Mary Byers, Bill Haessley, Clarke Dinsmore, Glenn Weigand, Harvey Stiffler, Dick Culberson, and Walt Vansickle.

Juniors in the Boys' Glee club were: Bill Haessley, Clarke Dinsmore, Bob Zimmerman, Forrest Peppel, Orland Ludwig, Bill Lieder, and Walter Schneider, and those in the Girls' Glee club were Sally Strank, Emilie Cheval, Betty Merry, Louise Hanna, Jane Stamp, Marjorie McArtor, and Martha Jane Stirling.

The evidence has all been considered, the case has been tried, and the Class of '43 is found guilty and sentenced to the title of a truly "revolutionary" class.

After having spent two years in the halls of S. H. S., the class of '44 can now feel as though it really belongs.

The class has proved its worth by the enthusiastic participation of its members in sports and various club activities. In football, the masculine half of the class was quite outstanding. Mr. Overturf, football coach, selected for the varsity squad Frank Entriiken, Dick Greene and Carmen Nocera.

Class of 1944

The junior varsity squad was greatly aided by Gerald Bingham, Fred Cain, Kenneth Groner, Elmer Johnson, Benny Kupka, Charles Myers, Bob Shea, Jack Smith, Albert Votaw, Kenneth Wagner and Ray Wise.

Four sophomore boys, George Drakulich, Frank Entriiken, Dick Greene and Ray Wise, were chosen by Coach Herb Brown to do their bit toward making S. H. S.'s basketball season a successful one. The boys of the class of '44 who wet out for track were Jim Primm, Jack Rance, Edward Ferko, Dick Widmyer, Rudy Ciotti, Bob Shea, Nathan Bahm, Carmen Nocera, Ben Kupka, Kenneth Wagner, Ed Votaw, Fred Cain, Darwin Charnesky, Charles Myers, Jack Smith, Frank Entriiken, and Elmer Johnson.

First row: Davidson, Altomare, Antoneo, Emmet, Equize, Dilworth, Ellis, Carmelo, Chappell, Butler, Bodirnea, Beery, Eppinger, Colson, Galchick, Freshley. Second row: Fiets, Bricker, Cosky, Faulkner, Clark, Capriolli, Coccia, Burrier, Fornay, Bartchy, Bardo, Black, Anderson, Collins, Flitcraft. Third row: Fineran, Ferko, Drakulich, Fink Gartner, Budai, Briggs, Bahm, Fawcett, Englert, Ciotti, Culler, Armeni, Bingham, Carlisle. Fourth row: Donofrio, DeMalignon, Bush, Atkinson, Benson, Englehart, Fromm, Cafaro, Cibula, Cone, Becknell, Cain, Charnesky, Entriiken, Dunlap, Demeo, Butler, Albert.

Two years, promising even more success

The large number of sophomore girls in the G. A. A. proved that the boys had nothing on the "weaker sex" when it comes to participation in sports.

During the year the class sponsored two highly successful projects to raise money for the treasury. The first was the sale of booster plates of the type that are attached to automobile licenses. The second was an assembly presented by Dr. George Roemmert, noted biologist, in which the main attraction was Dr. Roemmert's highly perfected microvarium.

This class of '44, in its first two years in Salem High School having proved itself to be a body capable of accomplishing well any undertaking it sets out to master, will, if this spirit continues during the latter half of its high school career, mark itself as one of the outstanding classes in Salem High's history.

Those members of the class of '44 in the band were Dale Wykoff, Jack Fineran, Priscilla Berry, Barbara Butler, William Benson, Eugene Hively, Doris Holroyd, Bill Hannay, Mary Jane Sproat, Elizabeth Stewart, Nick Budai, Ray Greenisen, and Mary Beth King.

On May 1, the sophomores joined with the freshmen for the underclass party, which featured a patriotic theme with a huge American flag in the center of the decorations.

On September 4, 1941, 218 strange, bewildered-looking faces suddenly appeared in the halls of Salem High and seemed to be causing quite a commotion wandering about the halls, looking frantically at room numbers and receiving constant heckling from many superior-looking individuals.

Such was the entrance of the Class of 1945 into Salem High School, for like all freshman classes, they soon found they were considered the greenest of the green, and destined to an unhappy nine months known as the dumb and silly freshmen.

Class of 1945

But as soon as this class had settled down to high school life, something seemed to go haywire. Perhaps the class of '45 was different, perhaps freshmen weren't dumb anymore, but at any rate this freshman class quickly proceeded to strike out for itself and make its mark among the other classes.

Immediately upon entering Salem High, the freshmen had the nerve to send a delegation of twenty-one students into the high school band, over one-fourth of the total membership, and they hadn't even been here a week.

Soon after this, came the class elections. Instead of electing their officers calmly, as any respectful freshman class would have done, they proceeded to tear the freshman home rooms apart with campaigns, which up to this year, had been the exclusive right of the juniors and seniors.

Two freshmen were also responsible for the most commendable and patriotic deed performed by any two Salem High students this year. Ernest Ware and Chris Paparodis, both class officers, volunteered for the task of raising and lowering the school American flag and performed the task faithfully every day throughout the year.

The next outstanding act of this class came when Basketball Coach Herbert Brown decided that he would have a freshman basketball team, in order to take advantage of all the talent in the class. So Salem High's first freshman basketball team was formed and their season's record of fourteen wins and three losses testifies to their ability.

Perhaps the most outstanding thing about this class is that its members participated in every club and activity open to them.

The freshmen were also active in other sports, placing the following boys on the football squad: Charles Schaeffer, Carl Ferreri, Melvin Flitcraft, Jay Leach, Ray Kelly, Ernest Kornbau, Jim Appedison, Gail Walters, Harry Lodge, and Walt Brian.

When the final record of the Class of '45 is written, it will be noted that, contrary to tradition, they proved the worth and ability of their class even when they were freshmen.

class of '45 is now ready to make its mark.

We have now completed our journey "In the Classrooms" of Salem High school. We have proudly presented our faculty, our classes, and described the essential functions of our school and we hail them as concrete tributes to the 25 years of progress and advancement that have now passed. And as we now go on to present the extra-curricular activities of Salem High school, the organizations, the athletics, and student life in general, we feel the same pride in the accomplishments of the past and entertain the same hopes of progress and success in the future.

OUTSIDE THE

Classrooms

25 Years Ago

There were very few extra curricular organizations of any kind in Salem High. As a matter of fact with the exception of the athletic teams, there is no mention in the school paper of twenty-five years ago of any organization at all except the paper itself. There were several boy scout troops in Salem and several church clubs for young people and these were the full extent of clubs and activities for students of high school age.

It is interesting to note that soon after the new school was opened, a campaign was begun to organize a school orchestra, which became the first extra curricular of Salem High school.

Perhaps the absence of those organizations that enable a student to make use of his spare time in the school of twenty-five years ago proves the value and the fullness of the present well developed program. For with the great variety of extra curricular organizations that are available to the students of Salem High, we can proudly boast that our school offers every opportunity to the student to develop his talents or occupy his time.

Annual Editor: Herbert Hansell
Adviser: H. C. Lehman

This year's Quaker weekly went into action under the leadership of Mary Byers, the first junior ever to edit the Quaker, and the first girl editor in five years.

Comprising the regular staff were fourteen writers, all of whom possessed experience, and the apprentice staff, composed of those students showing journalistic ability but lacking the necessary training of a journalism course, had a total of eight members.

Mary Byers and Herbert Hansell represented Salem at the annual High School Journalism Convention held at Columbus during the early part of the school year. They participated in round table discussions on journalism and school newspaper work and attended a banquet, a dance, and a football game.

Other activities attended by representatives from the staff during the year included meetings of the Tri-County Journalism Association, at which prominent figures in the newspaper field were featured as speakers. In May, five members of the staff attended the district journalism meeting at Kent State University. A special staff chosen by Hansell to work on the annual was composed of Emma Bauman, Elizabeth Benedetti, Arthur Hoover, Jackie Brown, Margaret Farcus, Ruth Fidoe, Dorothy Haldi, Lois Hoover, Marie Kastenhuber, Walter Vansickle, and Ruth Sinsley.

Sidney Simon served as staff photographer.

The ad-men this year have completed one of the most successful seasons in the history of the Quaker.

At the beginning of the year, sixty inches was set as the ad quota for each issue of the weekly, but every issue has exceeded that mark. Nine hundred dollars' worth of advertisements was set as the goal for the annual, but this mark was passed long before the ads stopped coming in.

As a matter of fact, this year's business staff set a new record for the number of advertisements sold for both the weekly and annual.

Chris Paparodis, freshman, sold more ads than any other member of the weekly staff, while Homer Asmus, senior, led the annual staff.

Those who served on the business staff for the annual were: Wayne Steffel, Homer Asmus, Bill Probert, Miriam Seeman, Virginia Mayhew, Charles Lind and Charles Gibbs.

Charles Lind served as collector for both the weekly and annual groups.

A new system was tried this year in the ads for the year book in which pictures were included in the ads and this experiment proved to be very successful.

Members of the business staff represented Salem at a number of journalism meetings throughout the year, including the Tri-County Journalism Association meetings, the Kent State Journalism Convention and the State Journalism Convention in Columbus.

Charles Gibbs aided Dunlap as assistant manager throughout the year and Irene Fratila served as student secretary.

There's a Song in the Air

President: Walter Schneider
Adviser: J. P. Olloman

Last September when the Boys' Glee Club had its first meeting of the year, thirty boys, one of the largest groups in several years, answered Mr. Olloman's call for members.

The first meeting of the year, held two weeks after school opened, was a party in the gym to which all prospective members were invited. Two features of that evening enjoyed by all were the abundance of cider and doughnuts.

Among the club's activities during the year was participation in several assemblies. For the Hi-Tri Christmas assembly the club joined with the Girls' Glee Club and sang several numbers to help make the assembly a big success.

Perhaps the most outstanding activity of the year was a community sing, held in the high school auditorium, sponsored jointly by the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs. It was a very successful program to which the public was invited and responded enthusiastically.

Preparations for a minstrel show were made during the latter part of the year, but due to conflicts with other school activities, it had to be postponed. Mr. Olloman, however, hopes to carry it over until next year.

Martin Juhn served as piano accompanist for the club throughout the year.

Give Ear unto our Melodies

It is a well known fact that a well-developed music program is an integral part of an efficient school curriculum and for this reason the Girls' Glee Club is a very valuable extra-curricular activity in Salem High school. Such an organization provides an opportunity for those girls who possess musical talents to develop them, and also is a good means of securing recreation and entertainment.

This year's club, while it was not quite as active as some past Girls' Glee clubs, made a number of appearances and participated in several assemblies.

The club appeared with the Boys' Glee club in the Christmas assembly sponsored by the Hi-Tri and performed very capably even though it was the first appearance of the year.

In order to help develop music interest in the community, the Girls' Glee club again joined with the boys later in the year and sponsored a community sing. This program was open to the public and was led by the two clubs.

The final appearances of the year were made at the commencement and baccalaureate services, where the girls sang several numbers on each program.

Part of the purpose of the club is to furnish entertainment for various clubs and organizations when it is asked. Much of this has been done in the past, and although this year's club did not make any public appearances, it probably will begin again next year.

The Thespian club in Salem High is not a goal for those interested in dramatics, but is rather a stepping stone to more intelligent and active aims. Its purpose is to create a spirit of acting and to stimulate dramatic interest among the members.

The most important project of the Salem High Thespian club is the Kent play, produced each spring by club members and entered in the district dramatic competition for Class A schools at Kent, Ohio. This year's play, "Once A Pupil," by Raymond Bosworth and directed by the club sponsor, Miss McCarthy, had Donna Haessley, Charles Lind, Wayne Steffel and Howard Krauss as members of the cast. Thespians Marie Kastenhuber, Homer Asmus, and Lois Hoover, were in charge of stage work for the play. The club also presented this play to the high school student body in a special assembly.

By working on the Kent play and class plays, Thespians earn extra credits which are added to their original twelve. Those who have reached the advanced standing of the club are divided into three higher groups. Thespians having 20 points are star Thespians; those with 30 points are double star Thespians; and members with 40 points, honor Thespians. In the current crop of dramatists, Charles Lind is an honor Thespian; Wayne Steffel has become a double star Thespian; and star Thespians are Bill Dunlap, Donna Haessley, Lois Hoover, Isabelle Lockhart and Ben Ware.

Following a plan inaugurated last year, the local Thespians were guests at a meeting of the Leetonia club in the spring, where they exchanged ideas of organization and discussed dramatic activities.

Fetches Foothold on Fame

The Salem High school debate team this year compiled a record that has been equalled only once in the history of Salem debate squads. For the team went clear to the semi-finals of the state tournament before being eliminated by a very close vote, being judged one of the four best teams in the state.

The Salem squad won the right to enter the state competition in Columbus by winning the district debate tournament held at East Palestine. And then in Columbus they participated in four rounds of debating before finally falling by a 2-1 decision to Wooster High school, which then went on to win the state championship.

This year's varsity squad was composed of Ruth Sinsley, Mary Ciricosta, Herb Hansell and Dick Chessman. Hansell, possessing three years' experience, was the mainstay of the team, and in the tournament at Columbus debated on both the affirmative and negative teams. Ruth Sinsley and Mary Ciricosta, first negative and first affirmative respectively, both participated in debate for their second year, while Chessman, who spoke both second affirmative and first negative on occasions, was the only member of the team who had not debated before.

Although debate is not a popular activity, it is an extremely beneficial and interesting one, and the excellent record of the team this year shows the results of the hard, sincere effort put forth by the members of the team.

An active year has just been completed by members of the Latin club, under the supervision of Miss Helen Redinger, Latin instructor and club adviser.

A formal initiation was held February 12. Twenty-four new members were initiated, bringing the total membership of the club this year to fifty-seven. To be eligible for membership in the Latin club, Latin students must have at least a B average. The purpose of the club is to further interest in Latin and aid in extra study of the language.

Meetings of the club were held the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. At the first meeting of each month a motto was chosen, to be used as the password to the meetings for that month. These mottos were select sayings from classical Latin authors. Other activities of the club included Latin vocabulary drills, the reading of papers on Roman culture and customs, and plays put on by members of the club.

A one-act play, "Roman Women," was presented at the April meeting of the club. The cast included: Gaia, Mary Mullins; Marcus, the little son of Gaia, Jim Kelly; Pyrrhus, king of the Greeks, Lowell Hoperich; Greek soldiers, Eugene Mueller and Bill Byers; and Roman women, Betty Cibula, Helen Haessley, Marjorie Miller, Marjorie Reeves and Gertrude Herman.

In 1937 the Varsity S club was organized under the leadership of Mr. Herbert Brown for the primary purposes of promoting a lively school spirit, developing sportsmanship, and having as much good, clean fun as possible. Six years of organization have not changed this aim and the carrying out of the plan has made the club one of the most active in Salem High.

All boys who have earned their varsity letters in football, basketball, track or cross country are eligible for membership in the Varsity S club.

In carrying out its aim of promoting school spirit, the club was particularly successful. The night before the Leetonia-Salem football game a pep rally was staged at Reilly field. This rally was attended by a large crowd and featured the band, a huge bonfire, several guest speakers and a number of cheers. A parade through the streets of Salem, led by the band, climaxed the rally.

Later in the year a pep assembly was sponsored by the club before the annual basketball engagement with East Liverpool. At this time, Mr. Robert Campbell, former Salem High athletic star, gave a short talk on the history of the intense rivalry connected with the game.

The final major undertaking of the club was its annual benefit dance staged April 10 in the gym. The music was furnished by Alf Bottomly's orchestra and it was hailed as one of the year's most successful.

The Salem High band this year had the distinction of being the first high school band in the nation to use the newly-developed mercury-arc fluorescent lighting in its formations.

The 1941-1942 school year without a doubt can be called the most successful in the band's history.

First was the organization of the Band Mothers' club, a group composed of mothers of band members whose purpose is to aid the band financially. It was the efforts of the Band Mothers' club that secured the funds to purchase the new lighting equipment.

The next important factor in the band's success was the great improvement in the marching appearance of the band, and the use of girl drum majorettes.

The concert season opened up with the annual band concert on March 13, which was attended by one of the largest audiences that has ever attended this program.

For the first time in three years, the band also entered the district band contest in Bellaire and received a rating of "Excellent."

In the annual district solo and ensemble contest, 13 out of 21 entries qualified for the state finals, the highest percentage the band has ever had.

Limber Fingers and Liquid Notes

Once again Salem High's orchestra has completed a creditable year.

This year the orchestra had a new director, Mr. C. M. Brautigam. Mr. Brautigam also directs the school band. Under his supervision the twenty-five piece orchestra took part in various school activities. These included furnishing music for the performances of the junior and senior plays, entertaining at occasional assemblies and playing for the Baccalaureate and Commencement services. Several orchestra members also took part in the solo and ensemble contest.

Considerable new music was used this year, music chosen to fit the various occasions when the orchestra was called upon to play.

Graduation will cut heavily into the ranks of the organization, taking the only viola player, Deborah Beery; trumpets, George Bodirnea and Bob Entriken; French horn, Lois Field; clarinet, Margaret Ann Jones; bassoon, Lois Myers; violin, Elizabeth Stewart; double bass, Dick Stone.

The other members of the orchestra included ten freshmen, Jay Hanna, Stella Kot, Grace Pales, Lou Jean McDevitt, Virginia Shaffer, Calvin Critchfield, Bob Ellyson, Russell Graber, Jim Cope and Marjorie Zeller. The three sophomores were Howard Null, Priscilla Beery and Martin Juhn. There were three representatives of the junior class, Gene McArtor, Virginia Hanna and Fred Krauss.

To Create, Maintain, and Extend

President: Sidney Simon
Vice-President: Bill Dunlap
Secretary-Treasurer: Bill Probert
Chaplain: Homer Asmus
Adviser: Herbert W. Jones

The Hi-Y Club this year, following the same aim as former clubs had a membership of forty boys. That aim, expressed in the National Hi-Y motto is: "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community the high ideals of Christian character."

An outstanding feature of this year's club work was an exchange of three members of the Salem Hi-Y. On April 25, 26, and 27, Bill Dunlap, Charles Lind, and Bruce Hack of the Salem Hi-Y visited the Kent school while three students from Kent were guests of the Salem boys.

The club's basketball team playing against other Hi-Y teams in the Youngstown district won the suburban and city tournaments, thus enabling Salem to retain for another year the cup which was won by the Salem Hi-Y last year. Led by Bob Ritchie the team compiled a perfect tournament record of no losses. The ten boys who played on the team received tin pins.

Club meetings were held each Thursday. At these meetings timely and educational topics were discussed and men engaged in various occupations addressed the boys.

This year some of the more outstanding meetings were talks by state highway patrolman Cornelius Csepke, city officer Nerr Gaunt, and Mr. Frederick Cope. The annual Fun Night program was also held.

A different theme was chosen for each meeting and at the meetings these topics were discussed and explained. Among the subjects chosen were: A High School Girl in War-time, Leisure Time, The Working Girl, and Personality.

The first important projects of the year came just before Christmas when the club fixed and distributed baskets of food and other essentials to needy families and sponsored the annual Christmas assembly.

In addition to distributing the baskets of food, the Hi-Tri served the community in another important way by knitting every Monday for the Red Cross under the direction of Mrs. William Merry.

A committee headed by Elizabeth Bennedetti was appointed to take charge of the bulletin boards. Each week the displays followed the theme of the club's most recent meeting.

As the house lights were dimmed and the curtain rose on the senior class production "Our Town," by Thornton Wilder, the class of '42, in presenting its last stage production, also gave Miss Jean McCarthy, new dramatics coach, a successful inauguration as a director.

The setting of the play was in a typical small town called Grovers Corners, New Hampshire. The story was built around the life of two characters, George Gibbs, played by Dick Burcaw and Emily Webb, played by Marie Kastenhuber, and portrayed them through childhood, high school, adult life, and death.

The outstanding feature of the play was the fact that no scenery was used with the exception of chairs and a few necessary props. Homer Asmus was cast in the role of stage manager and his job was to point out the various events and explain their significance to the audience during the play.

The rest of the cast was as follows: Mrs. Gibbs, Rita Clare Pottorf; Mrs. Webb, Donna Rose Haessly; Dr. Gibbs, Charles Lind; Joe Crowell, Maybelle Huston; Howie Newsome, Howard Krauss; Rebecca Gibbs, Isabel Lockhart; Wally Webb, Donald Milligan; Professor Willard, Ben Ware; Mr. Webb, Wayne Steffel.

Simon Stimson, Sidney Simon; Mrs. Soames, Lois Hoover; Constable Warren, Robert Entriken; Si Crowell, Betty Lynch; Joe Stoddard, William Dunlap; Sam Craig, Richard Chessman.

Characters in the audience were Alice Miller and Betty Alexander.

"Ever Since Eve"

In their first dramatic attempt, the Junior class presented "Ever Since Eve," a comedy in three acts, on March 26-27, directed by Miss Jean McCarthy.

The action of the play centered around the work on the high school paper at Preston high school. Johnny Clover (Howard Coy) was editor and Spud Erwin (Dan Reardon) was business manager. Susan Blake (Ruth Sinsley) managed to secure the election of herself as assistant editor. Then the trouble begins, because she intends to run things and Johnny objects to her interference with his work. When Johnny and Spud get the measles, Susan decides to edit the important Easter issue of the paper. Many complications arise, but all ends happily. Martha Willard (Virginia Snyder), a young modern journalism teacher, and Henry Quinn (Herbert Hansell), the young serious high school principal, provide the romantic interest.

Others in the cast included: Lucybelle Lee (Mary Byers), who delighted the hearts of all the high school lads; Mrs. Clover (Dorothy Haldi), who managed to settle all difficulties which arose; her absent-minded husband, Mr. Clover (Paul Evans); Officer "Cappy" Simmons (Fred Krauss), the friendly policeman; Betsy Erwin (Irene Fratila), Spud's younger sister; Preston Hughes (Bob Moore), the football hero, and the football players (Bill Haessley, Clark Dinsmore, Harvey Stiffler, Dick Culberson, Glenn Weigand, and Walter Vansickle.

Pride of the School

Pleasant surroundings, proper lighting and an atmosphere of quiet do much to make the high school library an ideal place in which to read and study. During the first semester the library was often overcrowded, but this condition was remedied when a new system was introduced whereby each student was assigned to the library two periods a week. The new plan has been working satisfactorily, according to Miss Lois Lehman, librarian, and will probably be used again next year.

The student librarians are honor roll pupils, usually chosen during their freshman year. Two boys, Dominic Alessi and Olin King, are now on the staff. Five girls on the library staff graduate this year. They are Margaret Anne Jones, Marie Kastenhuber, Alyse Kuniewicz, Dorothy Lutsch, and Rita Clare Pottorf.

During the past year many interesting books were added to the library, making the total number of volumes approximately 4,300, and numerous pamphlets and magazines were also made available. The lighted show case outside the library attracted much attention when seasonal and departmental exhibits were displayed throughout the year.

The value of such a modern and well-equipped library cannot be overestimated, for much a place is a great aid in properly managing a high school. The excellent work done by Miss Lehman and her staff makes our library even more valuable than it otherwise would be.

A Girl in Every Sport

President: Eva Vissers
 Vice-president: Nina Cahill
 Secretary: Doris Holroyd
 Treasurer: Dorothy Greenawalt
 Adviser: Miss Hanna

"A sport for every girl and a girl in every sport" is the aim of the G. A. A. Basketball, volley ball and baseball are several of many sports in which the girls in the G. A. A. may participate.

During the year the club enjoyed several social events. They were as follows: a cover dish dinner in November, an initiation party for new members in January, two penny dances, and a picnic at Firestone Park the last week of school.

Eight senior girls, Eva Vissers, Maria Vissers, Marye Skorupski, Donna Rice, Virginia Mayhew, Miriam Seeman, Nina Cahill, and Eleanor Schuster, attended a basketball playday in March at Sebring and a volley ball playday in April at Lisbon. They also visited Leetonia and played basketball with the Leetonia seniors, who had won the basketball tournament in their school.

The sports leaders for the year were as follows: Hiking, Doris Ellis; bicycling, Dolores Rose; skating, Barbara Roberts; baseball, Maria Vissers; volley ball, Virginia Mayhew; basketball, Ruth May; and kickball, Jean Dixon.

To earn a letter a girl must have gained one thousand points, earned by attendance, not ability. Five juniors, Moona Cahill, Jean Dixon, Dorothy Greenawalt, Ruth May, and Betty Theil; and one senior, Dorothy McCartney, received letters this year. If one earns an additional three hundred points after she has earned her letter, she receives her year numerals.

25 Years Ago

The athletic program in Salem High was almost as well developed as it is today, in regard to the major sports of football, basketball, and track. There were no minor sports, such as tennis, golf, and cross country, however, and there was one other difference between the athletic program of 25 years ago and that of today. That difference was the broad athletic program available to girls.

In comparison to the athletic situation of 25 years ago, today we have a broader and more developed program, including a number of minor sports and an athletic department that is very efficient. In addition, 25 years have not served to dim the interest and enthusiasm that has always been shown by Salem High students for participating in and cheering on the various athletic teams.

GRADUATION

Mighty Among the Mightiest . . .

Coaches: Ray Overturf
Frank Gordon

Playing five of their ten games on rain-soaked fields, the Salem gridgers completed the 1941-42 season with the reputation of being reliable "mudders".

Although the Salem team possessed only a mediocre record this year, they succeeded in placing four of their members on the All-County football team, picked by Columbiana county sports writers. The passing combine of John Volio and Frank "Pinky" King was awarded a berth on the first eleven. King, who was center on the second All-County team last year, was converted into an end this year by Coach Ray Overturf, serving his first year as Quaker football mentor. Volio merited the quarterback position because of his excellent tackling, running, and passing abilities. Robert "Scubby" Scullion and Gordon "Tubby" Shasteen received the positions of fullback and guard, respectively, on the second team. Although Scullion was handicapped by a leg injury, he was a consistent ground-gainer throughout the year while Shasteen performed creditably on defense.

Richard Culberson and Gordon Shasteen were elected co-captains for the 1942-43 season at the grid banquet. Coach Overturf selected a different player each week for captain this year.

The Quakers began their season with a crushing 38-7 victory over a Madison-Salineville aggregation in a double-header tilt in which Madison opposed Salem during the first half and Salineville during the second. In this game Bob Scullion ran a kickoff 80 yards for a touchdown behind fine blocking.

Salem suffered its first defeat at the hands of the Ravens from Ravenna, 19-12. The Ravens made a gallant goal stand in the second quarter, forcing the Quakers to give up possession of the ball on the four-inch line after holding them for three downs. The following week the squad journeyed to East Liverpool to meet the Potters. Playing in a continual down-pour, Salem fumbled twice in their own territory, enabling Liverpool to win, 13-0.

In a game marked by frequent pass interceptions, the locals easily downed the Struthers eleven, 24-6. Salem took to the air frequently during the game, completing 15 passes in 25 attempts. At Wellsville the following week, the Quakers were defeated, 24-0.

The Salem squad next fell before the powerful Youngstown South team, 57-6. Niles added another victory to its list by defeating the locals, 26-0, before a Dads night crowd. In the next game, Alliance turned back the Quakers, 34-7. This marked the first time in seven years that a Salem team had scored against Alliance. Then, the following week the Quakers came from behind in the fourth quarter to beat the Lisbon Blue Devils, 14-12.

The Thanksgiving day game with Leetonia, a challenge match which was arranged during the year, ended in a scoreless tie and brought the season to a close.

Quaker Cage Stars

Captain: Ray McGaffie
Head Manager: Bill Rance
Coach: Herbert Brown

Relying on their clever passwork and shooting accuracy to compensate for a decided lack of height the diminutive Salem High cagers completed one of the most successful seasons in years under the supervision of Coach Herbert Brown, compiling a record of 14 victories in 19 starts.

Although the Quakers were eliminated in the first round of the sectional tournament at Youngstown by Canton Lehman, 45-40, they lost none of their prestige since Lehman advanced to the state finals.

Ray McGaffie, "long shot artist," made 164 points during the regular season to lead the team in scoring. Salvadore Guappone, who distinguished himself as a clever passer and ball handler, followed McGaffie in the scoring column with 145 points.

Playing his first year of varsity basketball, Sam Pridon capably filled the center position left vacant by the injury of Phil Cozad. During the regular campaign he scored 126 points to finish third.

John Volio, although never a high scorer, earned himself a position on the varsity by his aggressive playing and clever ball handling. Robert "Scubby" Scullion proved his ability as a defensive player and rebounder.

Although Carl Capel saw only limited action, he provided the winning margin in a couple close games and Robert Ruffing was used frequently by Coach Brown as a substitute. In addition, Brown found opportunities in many games to use his reserve men: Richard Culberson, Phil Cozad, Lawrence Frost, and Edward Fisher.

The opening game with Ravenna proved to be a real thriller with the Ravens taking the lead in the last minutes of the fourth quarter to win 34-30. The next two tilts saw the Quakers in action against two county rivals, Lisbon and Columbiana, defeating both these quintets with comparative ease.

Youngstown Chaney, Niles, and the Alumni next fell victims before the locals' attack. The Alumni squad gave the Quakers a tough battle before going down in defeat, 28-27. Traveling to Canton, Salem lost its second game of the season to the Lehman Polar Bears, 41-35. The Quakers then downed Alliance and East Palestine.

After holding the Warren Presidents on even terms for the first half, the locals fell behind to lose, 35-23. Then, Salem enjoyed a winning streak at the expense of Youngstown Rayen, Youngstown South, and Girard. The win streak was broken when the Quakers fell before the free scoring East Liverpool squad but the Brownmen soon returned to their winning ways, downing a weak Wellsville squad.

Playing a fine defensive game, the Quakers defeated Akron West, 29-20 and in a return engagement, Alliance avenged its earlier defeat, 36-29. Salem finished the season with victories over Struthers and Sebring.

Captain: Ray Wise
 Manager: Robert Griffiths
 Coach: Howard Lehwald

The junior varsity experienced a poor season this year, winning but one game and tying another out of the seven games played during the season. Three of the contests were played at Reilly Stadium and four were held out of town.

The squad that the locals defeated was East Liverpool. In that game, the Salemites nosed out the Potters, 6-0. The game that resulted in a 6-6 deadlock was with Leetonia.

The five defeats suffered by the Quakers came at the hands of Leetonia, Warren East, Warren West, Warren Central and Salineville. The Salineville team was the same squad that the Salem varsity defeated in a two-quarter engagement during the first game of the season.

All three of the Warren teams met by the Jay Vees had both a height and weight advantage over every man on the Salem squad.

In building a good football team, it is extremely important to have well-trained, experienced players to work with, and for this reason, the junior varsity is a very important part of the Salem High football program. The boys on the junior varsity all receive training and experience that will greatly aid Coach Overturf in developing good varsity squads.

Stars of Tomorrow

First row: Wise, Fisher, Frost, Entriken, Culberson, Greene. Second row: Pozniko (mgr.) Drakulich, Ehrhart, Lantz, Rupe, Vignovich (mgr.), Hoover (mgr.)

Captain: Ed Fisher

Coaches: Herbert Brown.

Howard Lehwald.

The reserves turned in a highly successful season for Salem High, winning fourteen games, the same number as the varsity, and dropping five decisions.

The team got off to an excellent start, winning six consecutive games before being stopped by Canton Lehman 24-16. The other losses came at the hands of Alliance, Youngstown South, Warren and the Hi-Y.

Captain Ed Fisher won high scoring honors for the reserve team with a total of 125 points in nineteen games.

The team was composed of five juniors: Fisher, Culberson, Ehrhart, Frost and Lantz; and five sophomores: Greene, Wise, Entriken, Rupe and Drakulich.

Culberson and Frost also proved to be two very valuable men, and in view of their ability, along with Fisher, they participated in several of the varsity games.

Among the most thrilling games of the year was the second game with Alliance, when the Quakers gained revenge for an earlier defeat by the Aviators. The Brownmen won a 32-30 overtime victory in this game.

The purpose of the reserve team is to season inexperienced players and prepare them for varsity competition, and by the ability shown in their games, the members of this year's reserve squad will comprise some valuable material for the varsity.

Pride of the Freshman Class . . .

Captain: James Appedison
 Coach: Howard Lehwald

This year was the first that Salem has ever had a freshman basketball team. It was started by Coach Brown in order to aid in developing boys for future positions on the reserve and varsity squads.

The yearlings finished the season with a record of fourteen victories and three losses, including a tournament entered at Massillon.

Walter Brian, who served as center on the team throughout the year, was high point man and the rest of the starting five was composed of Appedison, Lodge, Schaeffer and Dyke.

The most outstanding win of the year was the 47-28 upset handed Warren East by the locals. It was the first defeat for a Warren East freshman team in three years.

Every member of the team showed excellent ability throughout the year and if the form that they displayed is any indication, Coach Brown will have a number of very capable basketball players for the next three years.

The season's record:

Salem --43	New Waterford ---10	Salem --31	East Liverpool ---18
Salem --16	Warren East ----30	*Salem --25	East Palestine ---27
Salem --29	Leetonia -----25	Salem --47	Warren East ----28

Spring Turnout

Deriving most of its strength from juniors and underclassmen, the 1942 Salem High track team, coached by Raymond Overturf, gives promise of becoming a formidable outfit by next season.

The Quakers dropped their first meet of the year to Youngstown Rayen, 68-50. Sophomores Darwin Charnesky, Danny Kleon, and Edward Ferko distinguished themselves in this meet. Charnesky took first in the 880-yard dash, Kleon won the pole vault, and Ferko ran second in a fast 440. Individual scoring honors went to Robert Ruffing, who had a first in the shot put and a second in the discus.

Next week saw the locals take over a weak Warren Harding high squad, 73-44. Taking firsts in the shot put, discus, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, 440, 220, and 100-yard dashes, Salem won without difficulty. Frank Snyder took first in the broad jump with a leap of 18 feet 6 inches.

On the following Friday, the Quakers journeyed to Louisville, where they took over their game county rivals, 67-51. Gerald Bingham registered a first in the broad jump and John Hart took top honors in the discus event.

Failure to live up to past standards cost Salem a possible victory, as Boardman walked away with the next dual meet of the season, 71½-46½.

In the 13th annual Salem Night Relays, the locals placed three men. Edward Ferko, sophomore star, won the 440-yard dash, Robert "Scubby" Scullion took fourth place in the shot put, and Danny Kleon tied for fifth place in the pole vault.

In the county meet at East Palestine, Coach Overturf's team took third place.

Over the Net

Mr. Albert Moore, the new tennis coach this year, chose eight boys on his squad, three of whom were lettermen. The members of the team were Carl Capel, Bob Ritchie, and Robert Ruffing, lettermen; and Phil Cozad, Bob Moore, Walt Brian, Wayne Laughlin and Bob Zimmerman.

This year's schedule was composed almost entirely of Youngstown teams, due to the fact that Salem belongs to the Mahoning Valley Tennis League.

All of the league games were played at the Valley Rogers courts in Mill Creek Park, Youngstown, and the teams met were: East, Chaney, South and Rayen from Youngstown, and Struthers and Sharon. Alliance was also met twice during the season in non-league matches.

To train students for the tennis team and also to give those an opportunity who wished to learn to play tennis, Mr. Moore inaugurated a program of tennis classes which were held in the gym after supper.

Although the boys named above were the only ones selected for the team when the season first opened, any student who proved sufficiently capable was given a chance to earn a position on the team.

Graduating from this year's team will be Carl Capel, Phil Cozad, Bob Ritchie, and Bob Ruffing, but with those returning from this year's team and those who have received instruction in the tennis classes, Mr. Moore looks forward to a bright future.

The Clerk: What can I do for you?

I want a bar of soap, a bottle of ammonia, and a can of lye.

Lady: Poor man! And are you married?

Beggar: D'ye think, ma'am, I'd be relyin' on total strangers for support if I had a wife?

Doctor: I don't like the looks of your husband.

Mrs. Crumble: Neither do I, but he's good to our children.

Joan (meeting the young man with whom she had quarreled the year before): "Sorry," she murmured sweetly, "I didn't quite get your name."

John (cheerfully): "I know you didn't but you tried hard enough."

Ginny Snyder: I should say they are.

Howard Coy: Well I saw a girl the other day who was a lot healthier on one side than on the other.

Sid Simon: Would a long stocking hold all you want for Christmas?

Lois Hoover: No, but a pair of socks would.

Mr. Lehman: An anonymous person's one who doesn't wish to be known.

Who's that laughing in the class?

Lois Field: An anonymous person, Mr. Lehman.

Barber: Was your tie red when you came in here?

Fred Krauss: No, it wasn't.

Barber: Gosh, I must have cut your throat.

Mr. Brautigam: What! You want ten dollars a night for playing. You must charge by the note.

Herb Hansell: No, I charge by the mile. I play the slide trombone.

John Smith went to the insurance office to have his life insured.

"Do you drive?" asked the agent. "No replied the applicant."

"Do you ride a bus?" "No." "Do you fly?" "No",

"Sorry, sir," snapped the agent. "We don't insure pedestrians."

Man in Crowd: That ain't Burns, that's Shakespeare.

Auctioneer: Well, folks, the joke's on me. That shows what I don't know about the Bible.

Attorney: Are you certain this is the man who stole your car?

Larry Frost: I was until this case was heard. Nope I'm not su're I ever owned a car.

Pat watched the professor staring up at the sky through the long, shiny black telescope.

Presently a star fell.

"Shure, and the man's a good shot," said Pat.

The small town police sergeant was lecturing a constable. "You've been on the force for 10 months now and never made an arrest. I'll give you one more chance. Squire Daly has phoned that someone is stealing his apples. Go up there and get the thief." About midnight, the waiting constable saw a man walking along with a sack on his shoulder. He pounced on him, opened the sack and found a quantity of valuable silverware. "My mistake," he murmured, "but you can thank your lucky stars it wasn't apples."

Coach Brown: And remember, boys, that basketball develops leadership, initiative, and especially individuality.

Mrs. Finnigan caught sight of her neighbor's new signboard. "Washing and ironing done." "Look at that," she exclaimed. "Indeed, she ain't one better than Oi am. O've had me washin' done since yesterday but you don't see me draggin' out a signboard to brag about it."

Mr.s Smith was reading a letter at breakfast. Suddenly, she looked up suspiciously at her husband. 'Lewis," she said, "I've just received a letter from my mother saying she isn't coming to visit us as we don't seem to want her. I told you to write her to come at her own convenience. You did write didn't you?"

'Er, yes," said Mr. Smith, "But I couldn't spell convenience so I made it risk."

Mrs. Jones: Does your husband talk in his sleep?

Mrs. White: No, and it's so exasperating. He just smiles.

LET US HAVE FAITH THAT RIGHT MAKES MIGHT;
AND IN THAT FAITH LET US TO THE END DARE TO DO OUR DUTY AS WE UNDERSTAND IT. LINCOLN

We have kept the faith!

In 1862, the second year of Abraham Lincoln's administration when clouds of war and civil strife hung low over all, men with faith in Lincoln's leadership and in the destiny of this country, founded this company. Throughout the four score years since, men and women with the same faith have seen to it that this country and this company have endured.

Today, we are keeping the faith, and with our production approximately ninety per cent defense, we are cooperating in the national defense program in this and many other ways. Such is our duty as we understand it, and thus we do dare to build for tomorrow.
