Coach: Let's play for no pay

The debate over the school district's financial crisis heated up Menday when a football coach proposed to have colleagues work without extra pay to preserve the sports programs.

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

John Glenn High School's football coach suggested Monday that district coaches could perform their extracurricular duties without pay to help ease a budget crunch that threatens sports programs.

"For people who say we're only after money, put that in your pipe and smoke it," coach Chuck Gordon said during Monday's stormy school board meeting.

Gordon indicated that coaches are working with their teachers' union representatives to develop a plan allowing them to perform their coaching duties this fall without pay to preserve the sports programs.

Gordon's comments came as the school board continues to struggle with a $14-million shortfall that has prompted plans to eliminate all extracurricular activities.

However, a possible pay-to-play plan could still emerge, and a newly formed citizens group, Community Support for a Complete Education, also plans to try to raise money in the community to save extracurricular activities.

Woman's accounts differ

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

A Westland woman gave conflicting accounts of her actions on the night she allegedly stabbed her boyfriend to death and set his house on fire to cover up the murder, a detective testified Wednesday.

Kylleen Hargrave-Thomas, 41, initially told police that she left 42-year-old Manuel "Joe" Bernal's house at 625 Lansdowne, drove to her home and telephoned him immediately for an extended conversation, Detective Sgt. Russell Nowaczck said.

But she later told police that she drove home, changed clothes and took time to repair a broken acrylic fingernail before she called Bernal sometime after midnight on Oct. 11.

Bernal was found the morning of Oct. 11 after firefighters responded to a report of a fire coming from the second-floor bedroom of his residence, northeast of Cherry Hill and Newburgh. Clad in his underwear, Bernal had been stabbed twice in the chest with a kitchen knife.

Police found what they described as a fingernail mark on Bernal's chest, and they also found a broken nail tip in the garbage, Nowaczek testified during Hargrave-Thomas' murder trial in Detroit Recorder's Court.

Her attorney, Rene Cooper, has indicated that Hargrave-Thomas broke her fingernail while opening a car door and that the nail found in the garbage could have been someone elee's Nowaczek conceded under questioning from Cooper that he could not be sure the fingernail belonged to Hargrave-Thomas.

Testimony concluded Wednesday before Judge Wendy Baxter, who will decide the verdict. Hargrave-Thomas waived her right to a jury trial and asked for a bench trial.

Baxter has adjourned the closing arguments until Aug. 12. The judge had other commitments Wednesday afternoon and could not hear closing statements, and she was scheduled to leave for vacation afterward.

Hargrave-Thomas is free on bond pending the outcome of her trial. She will face a mandatory life term in prison if convicted of first-degree murder. She could face up to 20 years if found guilty of an arson charge.

Families on both sides of the case have been watching the trial.

On Wednesday, Nowaczck played a tape-recorded telephone call that Hargrave-Thomas made to Bernal's residence on the morning his body was found. She routinely talked with him each morning but reached his answering machine on Oct. 11.

Departing trustee raps teachers union

By DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

The Wayne-Westland teachers union rules the school district with its strong bargaining powers, a departing school board trustee charged Monday.

"The teachers union runs this district. That's where the power is at," trustee Sharon Felan said during her last school board meeting Monday. She was defeated in the June 14 election and will. be replaced today (Thursday).

The district couldn't afford the two-year, 8-percent raises that teachers received in their last contract, Felan said. Teachers got a 3-percent raise last year and a 5percent raise that's due this year, despite a $14-million budget

Addressing parents at Monday's meeting, she said board actions to approve raises for the 1,000-member Wayne-Westland Education Association "have hurt my child and yours." Massive student program cuts are planned

Felan didn't dispute that teachers deserve raises, but said the district couldn't afford the latest round. She also noted that teachers have failed to agree to concessions in the wake of massive budget cuts.

"I'm not putting (teachers) down at all," she said, but added that "some power needs to come back (to the school board). We need a balance of power."

Felan went so far as to suggest that the next teachers contact should be negotiated between the teachers union and an out-of-district negotiator.

We've thrown money at your feet. We've given you benefits. I don't get it," she said, in commenting that teachers have refused to give back. Drawing applause, she also

Bank expanded: Comerica Bank reopened for lobby business Monday after being closed several months for an expansion and renovation.

Customers check out Comerica consolidation

By Leonard Poger

Customers at the expanded and renovated Comerica Bank branch Monday liked what they saw, even through they had to endure a lack of close-by parking spaces and long waits in line.

But overall they were happy with everything else.

Patrons leaving the bank on its first day of business were pleased with the increase in commercial tellers' windows, lowered counters and the absence of the familiar bullet-proof glass at tellers' windows

The bank on Wayne Road between Warren Road and Hunter had its lobby closed for nearly three months while about $2 million worth of renovations and an expansion were being done.

During the work, the automatic teller machines, drive-through services and night deposits continued.

The improvements were part of a consolidation of two Comerica branches within two blocks of each other. Closed last Friday was a branch on Wayne Road just south of Warren, previously a Manufacturers Bank branch before the two corporations merged last year.

Manager of the consolidated branch is Gene Plaunt, with Comerica for 34 years.

Earlier, a Comerica spokeswoman said that employees from both branches would be assigned to the consolidated facility to give customers a sense of famil-

The interior has been expand-

While bank employees were busy handling customers' transactions, other employees were busy trying to finish the interior improvements and install trees and landscaping around the bank's parking lot.

With the consolidation and an expanded parking lot, there were still too many cars for "opening day." Some customers parked in the nearby Showcase Cinema theater lot and walked up a small embankment to get to the Comerica said earlier this spring it will try to find a buyer for the closed branch.

Split board vote serves up food service pact extension

Despite a one-year $180,000 deficit in the school lunch program, the Wayne-Westland board Monday narrowly approved extending a contract with Marriott Food Services

The board approved the meature in a 4-3 vote, but only after an earlier motion to rehire Marriott failed. Board president Leonard Posey changed his vote to support the plan.

School officials remain hopeful that the deficit will be turned around in the next year. The district this year would have lost a similar amount even if it had administered its own lunch program, officials said.

Food service employees oppose Marriott Services, citing poor communication between the company and the hourly district employees. But school officials still want to give Marriott more time to try to erase the food services

The district's top food services employee, Vicki Moore, issued a report Monday calling for minor price increases in some lunch items to offset rising costs. She also said an assistant director is needed in the district.

But school board appeared resistant to those suggestions and demanded that such contract issues be revised in conjunction with Marriott.

Food service employees had worried about possible layoffs when Marriott won the contract last year. But school officials promised in writing that no layoffs would be forthcoming.

Officials pledged again this year to maintain staffing levels, although employees in other groups have been laid off because of a severe budget crunch.

Food services employee Nancy Allen called relations between cafeteria workers and Marriott 'terrible." She cited problems such as food that doesn't arrive in the schools until days after it was supposed to be delivered

Board trustees also voiced concerns about the suggestion that Marriott bring in its own assistant director to help run the pro-

Driver dies of crash injuries

A Redford Township woman has died from injuries she suffered six weeks ago when she ran a red light, slammed into another motorist and struck a utility pole in northeast Westland.

Man robbed of bicycle at gunpoint

BY DARRELL CLEM STAFF WRITER

An Inkster man was robbed of his bicycle at gunpoint early Tuesday while riding on Palmer Road near Merriman in Westland.

The incident was one of three robbery or attempted robbery reports this week in Westland.

■ A Westland man reported that two men tried to abduct him and steal his car after he pulled into the driveway of his S. Carlson home early Monday.

■ A Westland man reported that he awoke and saw three men in his Hines Park Apartment unit early Monday. He accused them of stealing a television and jewelry, among other items.

In the bicycle robbery, the Inkster man, 30, reported that he was riding his 10-speed Schwinn east on Inkster near Merriman when two males standing next to a tree asked him if he had a cigarette

He stopped and offered them a light when one of the men pulled a revolver from his pocket and demanded the $80 bicycle, police reports said. The weapon was described as a stainless-steel revolver with a brown wooden handle.

The bicyclist complied with the robber's demands and they escaped. However, the victim provided police with descriptions and said he may know the identity of one of the bandits.

The case remains under inves tigation.

In another incident, a Westland man, 22, reported that he had been driving from a party to his S. Carlson home when he noticed another vehicle was trailing him. A friend was with him at the time.

When the two reached Carlson shortly before 2 a.m., the friend got into his own car and drove away and the Carlson resident pulled into his driveway, police reports said. Just as he started to get out, a male left the white Eagle Talon that had been trailing him and, revealing a gun, ordered him to get back into the car. The victim screamed "No! No!" as his mother came to the front door and saw what was happening: To scare away the would-be bandits, she yelled that police officers were on their way.

The mother's quick thinking probably foiled the robbery and abduction attempt, police reports indicated. The robbers fled, and the case remains under investiga-

However, police later questioned the woman at her mother's house, and she told them that she left voluntarily and that no robbery had occurred. She said she had moved some of her belongings from the apartment.

The alleged incident remained under investigation.

Schools eye removal of leaking fuel tank tank that leaked heating fuel at Franklin Junior High will have to be removed, although it poses no health hazards, Wayne-Westland school officials said Monday.

Cleanup of the tank and contaminated soil could cost as much as $180,000, said Randy Liepa, school district chief fiscal officer.

The tank is located near a storage building where leakage was found, school officials said. The tank is believed to have been underground since the late '60s.

School officials found the tank gan Department of Natural Resources. The district arranged to have the tank drained and then began developing a cleanup plan.

On Monday, some school board trustees asked administration officials about the possibility of finding the company that placed the tank on the site, amid hopes of recouping some of the cleanup costs.

Liepa, however, said the district has been unable to locate a responsible party, meaning the district is expected to have to pay

McNamara defends Jeep buy, attacks auditor

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara has come out swinging at a recently released audit of the management of Wayne County's fleet of 447 vehi-

The audit, released June 14. said that management of the county fleet is decentralized and sloppy, which opens the door for abuse of county vehicle privileges.

Auditor General Ramona Henderson's chief recommendation is that the county should establish or designate an office that would be responsible for keeping track of all county vehicles. Currently, the the county has sole control over the operation and purchase of its own vehicles.

McNamara said "the auditor general is a political arm of the county commission. That particular audit was very unprofessional. I really am disappointed in Ramona Henderson. Things are not as bad as she made them out to be." Henderson was unavailable for comment.

McNamara singled out commissioner Susan Hubbard, D-Dearborn, who chairs the commission's audit committee. "Sue Hubbard, I really believe, is very disturbed and very vindictive," he Hubbard retorted by saying, 'McNamara is a bum who should be kicked out of office. He is abusing the taxpayers' money and he's an arrogant bum."

Despite his overall dislike of the audit, McNamara believes that parts of it are worthwhile. He has agreed to work with county commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who has been given the job of writing an ordinance regulating county vehiele management.

One thing Henderson brought up in the audit report is that county department heads have 'great latitude" in deciding what kind of vehicles will be purchased, what options those vehicles will have and who gets to drive them.

Henderson's concern is illustrated by almost three pages of the audit report that are dedicated to Metro Airport's purchase of 25 Jeep Grand Cherokee Larados and lease of five Jeep Grand Cherokee Limiteds last year. Larados sell for $23,000 and up, Limiteds for $28,500 and up.

The report says that bid specifications were "designed around the Jeep Grand Cherokee Limited and Jeep Grand Cherokee Laredo (instead of) designed around the need and requirements of the division or department" that would use the vehicle.

Regarding the bid specifications, McNamara said that airport directors "may have stretched it a little bit to get the Jeep. Our objective was to purchase a Detroit-made vehicle.' (The Jeep Grand Cherokee is built in Detroit.)

"If they did it that way it was wrong," McCotter said. "You should determine what your spec-McCotter said. "You ifications are before you determine what product will meet

According to the audit report, bid specifications for the five like power seat adjustment, remote keyless entry system, automatic outside temperature reading system and automatic self dimming rear view mirror, "Many of the above specified items are not available as options on Ford Motor Co. or General Motors vehicles," the report said, but all but one are standard equipment on the Jeep Grand Cherokee

The audit report suggested that bid specifications for vehicle purchases be drawn up by a separate office of the county with input from the county agency that will ultimately use the vehicle.

Area reaction to Young: Relief

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW STAFF WRITER

Local reaction to the decision of Detroit Mayor Coleman Young not to seek re-election runs the gamut from polite relief to parting shots to praise for a record of accomplishment.

"I was surprised that he didn't run, but I was pleased," said state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville. 'Coleman Young preached racism to his constituents while preaching brotherhood to the suburbs We need a mayor down there who is more consistent, less confrontational and can see the broad picture.'

Geake represents voters in Livonia, Redford, Plymouth and

- Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, who has had his share of conflicts with Young, said he wasn't surprised by the mayor's retirement announce-ment. "What I look for now is someone who wants to build partnerships within and without the county," he said.

County commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, whose district includes Canton Township, said it was good of Young to leave voluntarily. "Unfortunately, too" many times politicians are like professional boxers," he said.

E 'Coleman Young preached racism to his constituents while preaching brotherhood to the suburbs. We need a mayor down there who is more consistent, less confrontational and can see the broad picture."

"They don't get out of the ring until they're carried out."

By not running, Amann said, Young is making a "magnanimous gesture." As for Young's record as mayor, Amann said, Coleman deserves a lot of credit for things he did for Detroit."

On the other hand, state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, said she hasn't given much thought to the effect of Young's departure. "I guess I'm more worried now about money for schools. I'm sure one of those candidates running can be very effective in Detroit." She declined to say which candidate, though.

State-Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford Township, who was born and raised in Detroit, said she's heard nothing better than vague per-functory praise for Young. "We know he must have done some good things in the beginning, but we can't remember because Detroit has gone so bad," she said.

"I wish the man good health and a wonderful retirement.

Young's departure bodes well for the whole area, Bankes said, because whether we like it or not, Detroit is the primary component of southeast Michigan and something we're all identified with.

"Detroit doesn't mean a single city," said Bankes, whose district includes part of Livonia. "It's a region, the tri-county area. If we want to bring in business from the rest of the world, we have to build a new image. And now we can do that.

Wayne County Commission Vice Chairwoman Kay Beard, D-Westland, whose district includes Garden City, said she's glad Young left voluntarily. "That's the way a person should go out."

As for what the future holds We can only hope that the people of Detroit elect a good politician who knows how to work with people," Beard said. "We doesn't go down the drain."

State Rep. Jerry Vorya, R-Plymouth; said Young "probably served a very good function for a number of years," but it's important to get new people in the mayor's office because "whether we like it or not, how goes Detroit, so goes Michigan."

County commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, said, 'I'm glad he decided to retire. I think he was a political genius, but being a political genius doesn't always equate with serving the public."

Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett said he's pleased that Young is retiring. "In many areas he was good for the city," Bennett said. 'He overcame some of the problems with race relations in the city. But much of the time he was there he created a very hard line with the rest of the metropolitan area and Detroit on race rela-

County commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, whose district includes Redford Township said, "By Coleman Young retiring from the mayor's office, I am optimistic that opportunities for new and fresh ideas will be introduced, and more importantly, implemented in the

Engler finds flaw, vetoes 9 of 15 bills

Gov. John Engler has vetoed part of a 15-bill package allowing ocal governments to speed up or dinance enforcement.

Engler disapproved nine bills, telling Senate sponsors they had gone too far in allowing decriminalizing of some drug and morals offenses.

Purpose of the package was to allow criminal misdemeanor offenses to be reclassified as noncriminal municipal infractions. That would allow cities and townships to handle violations by tickets and without attorney representation. Sign ordinances, dog laws, building and zoning violations were among the offenses that could be reclassified.

This year when they visited the zoo with their families, they found out just how big "mammoth" can be.

Our annual carrier night at the Detroit Zoo included all the great regular stuff—Moslem Highland Shriners and their lady clown unit, train rides, elephants, baboons, and all the other zoo regulars— plus the dinosaurs and wooly mammoths that are visiting the zoo this year.

This special evening is just one way we let our carriers know how important they are. These young people must make sure your hometown newspaper arrives every Monday and Thursday. They know they must also keep track of their route, handle collections, and treat their customers in a businesslike manner.

We try and make it fun and interesting with contests, prizes and awards.

THE AUTHORI

Lotsa dough:

Lotsa dough: Schoolcraft College raised almost $40,000 recently at its 10th annual golfing fund-raiser at Fox Hills Country Club. The reason so much money came in is that six professional golfers from the senior tour turned out to play with each team of amateurs and conduct a golf clinic. Above, pro Dave Hill teaches Larry Bennett how to putt right. Schoolcraft spokeswoman Saundra "Sam" Florek said that another pro, Tommy Aaron, got a hole in one on number six, a 168-yard, par three. The event's success, Florek said, is due to event chairman Tom Bohlander of Plymouth Township, who arranged for the pros to attend. Next year's golf fund-raiser will be on June 13. Plymouth Township resident Charles McIlhargey will be the chairman. McIlhargey's team also shot the low score, 14 ander par.

Neighborhood news

he Westland Observer wants to know what's happening in your neighborhood. Homeowners typically get together for a picnic, holiday parade, benefit for a charity organization, block party, or just to have a good time. The Observer's series on neighborhoods, which began earlier this year, reflects the varied activities of Westland residents who aren't involved in the typically high-profile organizations. As part of the neighborhood coverage, the Observer also focuses on one neighborhood or association (like Brandon Valley elsewhere on this page). To submit information about your neighborhood's activities, mail newsletters or announcements to the Westland Observer editorial department, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150 or use our fax number, 591-7279.

Holliday Park

olliday Park Townhouses Cooperative plans a variety of activities for July. Line dancing lessons are scheduled for three Tuesdays, July 6, 13 and 27, in the Holliday Park clubhouse. Instructors are Jerry and Betty Bergadine. Euchre and other card games will be played Friday nights, July 9 and 30, with card games also set for 11 a.m. Thursday, July 15 and 29.

Re-elected to the cooperative's board of directors are Bill McKenzie, Joyce McGovern and Phyllis Galloway.

The Holliday Park Women's Club ended its season with a membership dinner. Raffle winners were, in order, Reulah McCrea, Pauline Coddington, Jo Reece, Marie Busch, Florence Kiss and Ann Gensler.

A mixed senior bowling league will start in September at Plymouth Bowl. A "suds and swim", social is scheduled for Saturday, July 24, at the cooperative's swimming pool. Upcoming group trips are planned for the Canadian Rockies this month, a train trip to Colorado in August, Branson, Mo., in September and New England in October.

Westland Meadows

estland Meadows, a large mobile home development on Van Born at Merriman, recently held a parade and carnival to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Picnic enjoyed: Brandon Valley residents Brian Koestering and Michael Russell enjoy hot dogs at an association picnic.

In the saddle: Lisa Bokuniewicz steadies son Gregory as he prepares for a pony ride at an association family event.

Group unites small neighborhood

Brandon Valley, one of the city's newest subdivisions, has its association members busy with a variety of family-oriented activities.

By BARBARA WILSON SPECIAL WRITER

The 67 houses in Westland's Brandon Valley subdivision were new in 1988 and so were the people who moved into them.

The new neighbors didn't know each other very well even though they were part of a small group clustered together off Newburgh, between Joy and Warren roads.

One couple took it upon themselves five years ago to serve as the "social directors" for the Brandon Valley residents and since that time the neighbors have learned the names and faces of everyone on the block.

"We thought it would be a good way to get to know the people around you," said Cindy Morphew, who said last week that a move by her family may lead to the homeowners' association being disbanded.

"It was a small neighborhood so I started by going door to door."

The Morphews went to each house in Brandon Valley and collected basic data such as names of each family member and age, hobbies and professions. They compiled this information into a neighborhood directory.

"It was really nice because if you were new to the area and needed a baby sitter you could go to the directory," said Beth Russell, another active member of the neighborhood

The Morphews really took off with the idea of getting the neighbors to-gether on a regular basis and kept with it nearly five years.

'It became more difficult lately as there have been some personality conflicts and the same people end up doing all the work," Morphew said.

The neighborhood group is now in danger of folding, but in its heyday it drew representatives from at least 50 of its 67 houses for social events.

'It was really wonderful at first," Russell said. "I hope some new p ple step forward to keep some of the vents going."

The Morphews planned an event for each month dividing them evenly between family, children's and adult activities.

The association hosted block parties, Easter egg hunts, visits from Santa, golf outings, CPR/safety classes and even a ladies day out with a trip to the spa.

"It has been a fun association," Russell said. "I like being involved people in the neighborhood and getting to know the people I live with.

Morphew said she knows the names of almost everyone in Brandon Valley and if a child gets hurt in front of her house or a dog is on the loose she knows right

When the association first began, residents did not want the group to take any kind of political stand or set rules for the homeowners, Morphew said. There are no common areas to tend to in the neighborhood, and the city is responsible for trash removal and snow removal.

Dues for the association are $50 annually and families with no children pay $30. The dues cover all the activities hosted by the association, as well as a newsletter.

Once the Morphews got things moving for the neighborhood, block representatives were selected for each block and they were responsible for bringing ideas for activities to monthly meetings.

'We just gradually started losing people," Morphew said. "I don't know if the children are older and families are more involved with school activities or if residents just got tired of the events we hosted. It's become more difficult lately."

The Morphews are leaving Brandon Valley soon, but she has no doubt that she will get involved in her new neighborhood as well.

"I've already talked with them about a directory, and they think it's a great idea," she said. "It has been a headache from time to time, but I think it is important to be involved and take part in activities within your neighborhood.'

As for Brandon Valley, Russell is confident that new blood will step forward to bring the neighborhood back to life.

"I think people will really miss the things we offered and will step forward to help out," she said.

Brandon Valley is made up of young families with three to four children per household, according to Russell.

Other goals are improve the chamber's awareness in the community, enhance the quality of programs and seminars, increase the chamber's role in government, forge a stronger relationship with the Westland Center Merchants Association and initiate capital improvements.

Livonia schools face decisions on budget cuts

By Marie Chestney Traff Writer

Serious debate about programs to cut from next year's school budget begins next week for the Livonia Board of Education.

So far, trustees have avoided having to make hard choices between this program or that. In late June, the board set a 1993-94 budget that shows $12 million in cuts, but doesn't spell out what those cuts will be.

Just two of the more controversial cuts proposed are varsity athletics and the sixth hour for middle and high school students.

If trustees opt to restore either program, the money to run them might have to come from cuts in other programs. Up to now, support among trustees for keeping the sixth hour has dominated.

But one advocate, Pat Sari, stepped down from her post Wednesday. Her replacement, Sue Clulow, takes her seat for the first time Tuesday.

After an organizational meet ing, budget talks get under way Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the board offices, 15125, Farmington. Talks will continue at the same time Wednesday and Thursday, if needed.

The trustees recently asked administrators to study the legal ramifications of "pulling a Kalkaska." The Kalkaska School District shut down earlier this year rather than make massive program cuts.

On Monday, the trustees discussed reports made by John Rennels, assistant superintendent for personnel; Robert Laundroche, assistant superintendent for business/instruction; and Mike Furlong, finance director.

The bottom line, the administrators said, is that the Livonia Education Association, the teachers' union, must agree to shortening the school year or the district must still pay them their salary.

"The only safe way to pull off a Kalkaska approach is if you work out an agreement with the teachers' union ahead of time," Rennels said. "If the teachers have an agreement in effect, then they will be entitled to full pay regardless of the number of days worked, if the district unilaterally shortens the work year."

Teachers in Kalkaska agreed to shorten their school year and began collecting unemployment benefits, the administrators said.

State law prevents districts from "any planning which would close the district early and result in a deficit budget," Laundroche

He also saw "very little community support" for shutting the district down early. He said it could lead to a backlash against trustees, and lead to a recall move-

"Parents in great numbers would see us as using kids as hostages to solve our own problems,' Laundroche said.

Just how deep next year's budget cuts will be for the district hinges to a great extent on what kind of school aid bill Lansing lawmakers pass sometime this summer.

Until the aid bill is passed, the district won't know for sure if next year's cuts are $1.8 million, $3 million or more.

The trustees recently decided not to ask residents for more money in an August millage elec-The trustees who nixed an August election said details of the state aid act need to be known before residents are asked to pay more money.

They also said employees must make wage or benefit concessions.

The bulk of the city's cable monies — $580,000 — has been set aside for equipment for the city's cable television studios on Warren Road, between Wayne Road and Venoy.

Granting the school district request would virtually deplete the cable fund, leaving only $17,000, said Diane Abbott, the city's cable TV manager. That would leave little money for cameras that the city police department wants to buy for its patrol cars in coming months. Council member Sharon Scott, drawing support from a majority of the council, suggested that school officials submit their proposal again in six months, giving the city more time to study the feasibility of the grant.

City officials also wanted assurance that the Wayne-Westland school board definitely plans to tape its meetings. The school board adopte a resolution Monday to cablecast its meetings.

Dell had indicated to the council that the board wants its meetings to be taped and shown on local cable channels once the equipment is bought.

Last week, council president Charles Pickering and member Glenn Anderson voiced support for approving the cable grant for the school district, saying they believed the meetings should be televised. Council meetings already are taped for later showing

Major shifts for school district

he announcement three weeks ago that Joseph Marinelli, Livonia school district superintendent, has resigned and will leave by June 1994 is but one moré change in what has become a rather major shift in the district which includes northern West-

Marinelli, whose tenure was marked by the establishment of the strategic planning process, came to the district with strong lobbying skills and a commitment to meeting the needs of a changing student body that has become more diversified as the next century nears.

These years were a great personal challenge for Marinelli who accepted the difficult task of replacing the much loved and respected James Carli whose unexpected death was a shock for the entire community. While no-one expected Marinelli to "replace" Carli, it was only natural and yet unfair that comparisons were made.

The superintendent's departure between now and next June will close a chapter on a period of transition in which several changes have occurred. One of the most striking, probably, is what amounts to a complete turn over on the school board and a reversal in financial condi-

In 1986, the year James Carli was appointed superintendent, the school board consisted of Carol Strom, J. Richard Thoderson, Marjorie Roach, David Cameron, Joseph Laura, Patricia Sari, and Diane "Pat" Tancill, Laura, Tancill and Sari were the new kids on the block.

In 1990, during Marinelli's tenure, the board was pretty much the same: Tancill, Sari, Laura. Roach, Strom, Thoderson and Richard McKnight. Now, as Marinelli begins his last year, only Laura, McKnight and Tancill remain on the school board.

During this period there also have been several changes in administrative positions and principalships. These latter changes are more normal, however, as the affected persons have either retired or moved on to better positions. The change in the school board and pending departure of the superintendent are indicators of

The other major shift is in the financial condition of the district. A half-a-decade ago the school district had a fund balance of $10-$12 million and had money to spend on special programs that made the district a model for others to emulate. For several reasons the taxpayers on-going revolt intensified and the "surplus' came under attack.

Now the fund balance is at dangerously low levels, programs have been reduced and eliminated, the district's curriculum has "shrunk." and it is no longer a model to be copied by others. And taxpayers are still mad. Despite numerous budget cuts, no-one is confident voters will approve either a Headlee waiver or a request for additional millage.

The district now is dismantling its educational program so it can approach voters with a tax proposal. That, too, is a major shift.

The Observer does not know what the future will hold, but we feel certain that future historians will look at June 1993 as a pivotal period in the district's history. We hope the pivotal movement and the board's subsequent decision to promote secondary education director Kenneth Watson to replace Marinelli will be up-

The purpose of ordinances is to ensure the public peace and harmony by providing mutually agreed upon rules by which to live. These are not for personal manipulation, or to appease or coerce. An ordinance officer's duty is to enforce the ordinances that exist. To use these for one's personal or political benefit, or for that of one's superiors, is unethical. fter reading Mr. Noel's article concerning the Mayor's Drug Task Force, and a few of his other articles, it is obvious to me that Mr. Noel has only one approach to issues - negative.

It's apparent that he fails to check his facts. It's disheartening to see a candidate (Noel) who wants to be the Mayor of one of the largest cities in this state criticizing a drug task force made up of people in our community. These are concerned citizens who have taken their personal time to sit down and come up with ideas on how to help lessen the drug and alcohol problem in our community.

Mr. Noel stated that resource books on drugs already exist and then said, "The fact that the City of Westland has not put together or sponsored a guide is a shame to the Thomas Administration.

Contrasting city images beg for a new attitude

It is the best of times and the worst of times. In one city, thousands of people walk the streets at all hours of day and night, jostled and hustled but unmolested. In the other, a few derelicts and gangs of roving teenagers keep everyone else from venturing forth, and those who do venture forth are likely to wind up dead.

In one city, hotels, restaurants, taverns, theaters, museums, shopping centers, outdoor-markets, sports stadiums are bustling in the downtown, the midtown and the uptown. In the other, the old shopping district is deserted and boarded up, the few hotels along the waterfront struggle to survive, two short blocks constitute the most active restaurant area, the baseball stadium is aging badly and within a hundred yards is an intolerable slum that forces most fans to hurry to their cars and the safety of the suburbs. A valiant attempt to create a theater district must struggle against the deterioration around every corner.

The city in light is Toronto. It is everything a big city should be. It is moving, exciting, active. It has its share of street hustlers, panhandlers and malcontent teenagers. But they don't own the city. They are a minority that adds a bit of dangerous color to an already dazzling kaleidoscope. The downtown has dozens of prospering hotels. The theaters in Toronto are second only to New York and are in considerably better condition and better located. Toronto is not a perfect place. It is expensive, it has a rising crime rate (at least by Canadian standards), it has its share of run-down areas and it shares the economic problems of Canada in general.

But the other city is Detroit, which is everything Toronto is not: It is shabby, violent, dangerous. Most of its neighborhoods are run down or totally burned out. Every attempt to pump life back into the city seems desperate. And even as we root for Mike Ilitch, we despair at how little and how late these gan Council of Governments. He has never shown his face at the SEMCOG General Assembly or Executive Committee - 234 meetings. SEMCOG is extremely important. Even when it doesn't do much, it's a place where local elected officials come to respect each other and get their rough edges sanded off. They don't talk ignorant rot like "Hit Eight Mile Road" to each

Young was inactive in the Michigan Municipal League, an association of cities and villages. Municipalities -particularly Pontiac, Flint, Port Huron, Saginaw, Benton Harbor, Sturgis — have a lot in common with Detroit, particularly preserving older neighborhoods and downtowns and blocking urban sprawl. Appointed once to a committee, Young never showed up in two years.

Young was rarely visible with the Michigan delegation at the four Democratic national conventions I covered. Gov. Jim Blanchard, Sen. Carl Levin and the party chairs were accessible. Young was in a VIP box somewhere.

Young, the Wayne and Oakland County executives and the chair of Macomb County started a series of "Big Four" confabs. It lapsed into uselessness. Guess why.

Every so often, usually at the beginning of a term, Young would talk about cooperation with neighboring communities. But he never lifted a finger or rode one mile in his armored limousine to follow through.

Young's tactic, in his own words, was never deal with the "house nigger," only with the main man — the president or governor.

Worse, his policy was to look out only for one city — not the towns of 200,000 or 50,000 or 5,000 that had the same problems. He helped shape the popular — but wrong-headed — notion that associates "urban" with blackdominated cities of more than 1 mil-

And so he squandered two decades, almost a generation, of opportunity to help all cities and villages, including Detroit. He ignored potential allies, like the old, bald Republican state rep

A number of times, Young's people invited me and other outstate news people to his digs. I suggested we get together at a SEMCOG meeting. Fat-

Young is retiring. Dennis Archer will be the next mayor of Detroit. I wrote a column two years ago saying Archer had the same bad attitude toward "the (white) media" as Young. Archer replied by sending me one of his questionnaires on what I thought Detroit's problems were and how to resolve

I had only one basic suggestion. If Mayor Archer is serious, he'll show up at SEMCOG meetings. Not everybody may love Detroit and Detroiters, but the old city has a lot more potential allies than Young imagined.

Controlling violence on TV can help control behavior with my wife, Kathy, after dinner. I was reading a magazine and not following their conversation. Suddenly, a line:

"There are only two or three fights a week at

I sat bolt upright. "What's that about fights again, Nathan?"

"Just what I said, Dad, only two or three fights a week."

Now, Nathan goes to a good public school. It's not perfect, but the principal is tough and fair, and the kids look like the face of America: hopeful, varied, mostly decent.

I remembered my own school in Ann Arbor, back in the '50s. I could recall only one fight in my entire school career.

I asked Kathy, who grew up in a little farming town in Wisconsin and then lived in Oklahoma. One of two in her entire schooling.

Of course, society has changed since Kathy and I were growing up. It's coarser, more varied, less restrictive, more open. And without doubt, much more violent. Nathan's two or three fights a week are a reflection of the times he is growing

What's the major contributor? Television, of course.

Hearings earlier this month in Washington featured the usual parade of self-serving industry mouthpieces arguing: 1) Violence is what people want to watch. 2) Violence on TV doesn't necessarily cause violent behavior. 3) Anyway, restricting violence on TV violates the First Amendment.

For years, a growing band of researchers has been pointing to the link between kids exposed to violence on TV and their subsequent aggressive and violent behavior.

A recent summary article in "The Public Interest" by Brandon S. Centerwall, an epidemiologist at the University of Washington, concluded that no less than seven U.S. and Canadian studies show a correlation between prolonged childhood exposure to TV and a tendency to physical aggression that extends from before adolescence into adulthood.

■ For years, a growing band of researchers has been pointing to the link between kids exposed to violence on TV and their subsequent aggressive and violent behavior.

What can be done? Centerwall suggests requiring all television sets be manufactured with locking devices through which parents can control children's access to certain channels.

That's a good idea, although it presupposes the kinds of parents who are worried about their children's exposure to violence in the first place.

It also assumes that acts of violence are confined to certain channels at certain times Wrong. Most parents know perfectly well that even regular network prime time programs including Saturday morning cartoons - are absolutely shot through with violence.

Following the example of the tobacco companies, we certainly can't depend on the television industry to regulate itself. Maybe we are at the point where decent people operating through the government have got to say there must be certain standards for TV and that's it.

Quality ought to rule on fate of our teachers, politicians

We send politicians to Lansing and as soon as they get there, they decide less government is the way to go, so control their own fate, the politicians shrug off the tough-decisions by passing them to us in the form of elections.

That's contrary to my understanding of the system. I thought we elected politicians to make, not dodge, decisions. If we don't care for the decisions, then we cancel the politician's ticket. Right?

So, putting these two thoughts together: If we have to make the decisions anyway, because politicians won't, and if politicians are for less government, as they say they are, then let's oblige the indecisive by not sending them back to Lansing the next time around.

■ It seems that every year someone comes up with a new test students must pass to prove their proficiency, yet we have no way of measuring the skills of their teachers.

That doesn't seem fair, particularly when we spend so much time and so much money trying to figure out how to fund our public school systems.

Teachers who inspire, motivate and make a student want to learn cannot be paid enough. It would be nice to reward them, if we knew, with some certainty, who they

I started thinking about this when Bob Block, Southfield's city manager, said one of the reasons Proposal A should be defeated is that throwing more money at our public schools, without a system of evaluation, is no guarantee students will get a better education.

Block is correct. Before Gov. John Engler launches another incomplete plan to fund schools, we must decide exactly what we want our school systems to accomplish, and then devise a method to monetarily support our plan.

PHILIP SHERMAN

■ There's an understanding in the media that, more or less, it's OK to print the name of a person formally charged with a crime, but not the name of the accuser if the crime involves criminal sexual conduct, minors,

Students and parents called to complain about a story we ran. The story said a 17year-old male high school senior had been charged with varying degrees of criminal sexual conduct regarding two 15-year-old

We named the 17-year-old in the story. His name became a matter of public record when his case was referred to circuit court from district court. We didn't name the 15vear-olds.

The 17-year-old was named because the community has a right, and a need, to know when its law enforcement network approves charges against one of its own.

We also named him because it's in his best interests. Not a week goes by without reading about someone, in some distant country, being charged with a crime and then dropping out of sight.

An arraignment in this country is designed to do several things. One of its most important functions is to show the public that the accused has not been "disappeared" into the system and forgotten. That's why the proceedings are public.

Suburbanites praise Archer's call for cooperation

By Susan Rosiek Staff Writer

"Let us join hands and work together to destroy the artificial barriers which separate city and suburbs.'

That's the message Dennis Archer, Detroit mayoral candidate delivered to some 65 suburbanites Tuesday at a breakfast meeting sponsored by the Westland, Canton, Garden City, Wayne and Dearborn Heights chambers of commerce.

Archer, 51, is a former justice of the Michigan Supreme Court and the early front-runner in a sixperson primary race for mayor in the city of Detroit.

Throughout his speech and a question and answer session, Archer repeatedly stressed the issues of crime, safe streets, economic development and job creation.

Archer said the city "can't turn the economic situation around unless streets are safe for every-

"The mayor must make sure the city is open for development. As mayor I will extend a hand of welcome to business,' said Archer.

Archer's vision

Archer envisions a city that is well-managed, well-run with more By the year 2001, Archer said he hopes the world will call De-troit "an urban miracle"—a city that has a "substantially reduced crime rate; one that has created jobs and opportunities for peo-

Archer also pledged to work with officials in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties to merge the Detroit and SMART bus systems. But he said any agreement must acknowledge that ridership in Detroit is nearly triple that of SMART and any merger would have to take into consideration the seniority and pension rights of DOT drivers.

Archer said he also supports placing a "modest - very, very modest — dedicated tax proposal" on the ballot next year.

On other issues Archer said he has no immediate agenda for waterfront development and that the agenda for Detroit will be set by Detroiters."

Opposes gambling

He opposes legalized gambling in the city of Detroit and "would resent it if the governor imposed casino gambling in a city which has turned it down four times."

When asked what Archer hoped to accomplish by addressing suburbanites he said that "most all candidates have accepted campaign funds from people outside one-third of the city's population is below the poverty line and although people may vote and care about the city, they aren't always able to donate money to campaigns.

Archer made it clear he was in Westland Tuesday because he was invited.

He said that the city of Detroit has been generous to the suburbs by investing pension fund money in suburban development. He explained that in the 1950s Detroit gave up an economic base to develop a metro freeway system and it constructed water and sewer lines which eventually accommodated suburban development.

Archer also pointed out that

E 'Let us join hands and work together to destroy the artificial barriers which separate city and suburbs.'

many suburbanites have "a strong love affair with the city." He said as mayor he will look to the suburbs for help in promoting a good image for Detroit.

Work together

"It would help if everyone in the region would "stop talking negatively," said Archer.

'It's imperative that we work together because nobody's going to invest in an area where people don't get along," said Archer.

Archer said the city and sub-urbs can learn from each and in the area of development have a lot in common.

Archer said small downtowns such as Rochester, Plymouth and Fremont (in west Michigan) "are experiencing some of the same problems that Detroit has over the years with nearby supermalls luring businesses from a central

On the use of public funds for a new Tiger Stadium, Archer said he doesn't have an opinion because he hasn't examined any of the proposals.

When asked how he could accomplish rebuilding neighbor-hoods Archer credited much of the work now to neighborhood associations. He pledged to work tofix-up and clean up the city, restructure the police department in an effort to attack crime and provide options for children "take away the temptation to do something illegal."

Message sticks

Archer's message of building bridges was a popular one with residents from throughout western Wayne County who attended the Tuesday meeting in West-

Ted Johnson of Plymouth said Archer's vision for the city "por-trays a positive point of view."

You can't operate in a vacuum," said Liz Johnson, an attorney in downtown Plymouth.

"I like the idea of Detoit working together with the suburbs." said Westland mayoral candidate Doug Noel. "I know the city of which you dream," Noel told Archer.

"He has extended the hand of welcome to the suburbs. I too have a love affair with the city of Detroit, and I don't like all the negativity about the area," said Joe Benyo, Westland City Council liaison.

Dennis LeMaitre, president of the Westland Chamber of Commerce, said he like Archer's pledge of support and cooperation with business.

You can't ignore the business community — that's where jobs come from," said LeMaitre

Charles Pickering, president of the Westland City Council and a mayoral candidate, said Archer's assessment of what's needed in the mayor's office in Detroit someone who is pro-business, pro-schools and pro-neighborhoods — also is important in Westland.

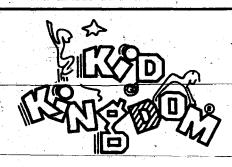

Plymouth City Commissioner Dennis Shrewsbury gives Archer high marks for wanting to "build coalitions instead of saying hit the road."

"As well off as some of the suburbs are we can't make it without the city," added Shrewsbury.

Take The Next Step At Wayne State University

If you are ready to take that next step toward earning your four-year degree, we are ready for you.

Last year approximately 5,000 students transferred to WSU from some 500 community colleges and four-year schools across the country. They are taking classes at our main campus in the University Cultural Center in Detroit or on one of our satellite campuses while others go to our University Center at Macomb Community College.

Some of the reasons students come to Wayne State:

- Strength of our academic programs — international reputation
- Cost the only Michigan public university with a negative increase in tuition costs over the past decade based on inflation
- Financial aid During 1991-92 WSU awarded $50 million in aid to students

Caesars halts Hines Park streak

Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury had its 18-game winning streak snapped Monday in a double-header by Little Caesars. But the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League leaders still lead by a comfortable margin.

By Steve Kowalski Staff Writer

Hines Park went more than five weeks without suffering its first loss in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

But in the span of six hours Monday night, Hines Park lost twice.

Little Caesars swept a doubleheader, 7-4 and 10-6, at Ford Field to end Hines Park's 18-game unbeaten streak. Despite the pair of losses, Hines Park remained comfortably atop the LCBL standings at 17-2-1 with 35 points.

Del-Wal is in second place with 25 points (12-5-1) and Caesars is in third with 22 (11-8). "We beat 'em good, it was no Caesars coach John Moraitis fluke," said. The losses must have made a lot of coaches and players from the LCBL

Caesars beat Hines Park's Jeff Paluk (Plymouth Salem) in the opener, knocking out the ace right-hander after 3½ innings. Paluk, who fell to 6-1, allowed six runs on five hits and suffered control problems with seven walks and three hit batters.

Paluk's younger brother, Brian (Redford Catholic Central), allowed one run on three hits, one walk and a hit batter over the last 31/2 innings.

"I told Jeff we started the wrong Paluk today," Hines Park manager Ken Wandzel said. "From the start of the season, Jeff has been one of the top two pitchers in the league.'

Caesars' winning pitcher was Mark Van Ameyde, who went the distance and scattered six hits.

Andy Gagne was 2-for-3 with three runs scored and an RBI. Randy Gierczak had an RBI double and Dave Roman (Livonia Franklin) had a two-run single.

For Hines Park, Tracey Ewald (Plymouth Salem) was 2-3 with an RBI; Scott Kapla (Redford CC and Canton) had a two-run single and Heath Fowler had an RBI single.

Caesars won the nightcap, 10-6, behind the play of leadoff batter Andy Krueger, who was a starting outfielder at Central Michigan University.

Krueger, who also plays in a Class A league in Battle Creek, went 4-4, including three doubles, with three runs scored and an RBI.

'If he played every day (for Caesars) they'd be right there with us," Wandzel said.

Lawrence Scheffer (John Glenn), Aaron Mach and Read Herskovitz had two hits each. Herskovitz had two RBI, Scheffer drove in one run Matt Patterson had an RBI-single.

Mark D'Antonio was the winning oitcher despite allowing 10 hits in 5¾ innings. Mark Temple (North Farmington) gave relief help. Ed Gundry (Plymouth Salem) had two hits and a run scored for Hines Park and Fowler went 3-3 with two RBI and a run scored.

Hines Park tied Del-Wal 2-2 on Friday in a game that was suspended because of darkness after seven innings. It went into the books as a tie.

Steve Ross went six innings for Hines Park and Andy Margolick pitched the final inning. Derek Wirebaugh started for Del-Wal.

Westland wins 2

Westland Federation won both ends of a double-header on Sunday against Walter's Appliance, 6-3 and 7-6.
Federation improved to 9-9 and Walter's fell to 6-13. Westland won the first game, handing

Walter's pitcher Pete Gallagher the loss. In the nightcap, Walter's starting pitcher Chuck Coleman lasted only 21/2 innings and coach Mike Keller's team stranded 13 runners on base. Dan Taylor was Westland's winning pitcher, lasting 41/5 innings.

Despite the loss, Walter's had a trio of hitting stars: Coleman and Solak were 3-4 each, with Solak contributing a home run and two RBI; Mike Thomas (Livonia Churchill) was 2-2 with two runs scored and one RBI.

Del-Wal sweeps

Del-Wal swept the last place Tecumseh Green Giants on Sunday, 8-5 and 6-0. Tom Kretschmer and Andy Duncan each hit three home runs during the twinbill. Duncan went 4-6 at the plate and Mark Temple (North Farmington) survived a rocky first inning to win the first game with seven strikeouts. John Vandenbrink threw a complete-game three hitter in the nightcap.

Tom Gregg was 2-4 in the second game.

LCBL no-show puts status in jeopardy

By Steve Kowalski Staff Writer

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball League playoff champion will travel to Pennsylvania, but it's not known if the final destination is Johnstown, Pa., site of the All-American Amateur Baseball Association national championship.

The LCBL playoff champion (to be determined in late July) won't receive an automatic bid to Johnstown, officials said. To reach Johnstown, the LCBL playoff champion has to win or take second-place at the eightteam AAABA regional, held in Altoona, Pa.

LCBL director Gary Gray said he wasn't able to attend a AAA-BA preseason meeting in Boca Raton, Fla., because of budget restrictions in the Livonia Parks & Recreation Department and the absence probably hurt the chances for an automatic bid to Johnstown. This was the secondstraight meeting the LCBL missed attending, Gray said.

The last LCBL champion that had to attend a regional was Walter's Appliance in 1990, but most teams were counting on an automatic bid this year.

"The rule states if you don't attend two meetings in a row, you have to attend a regional," Gray said. "We didn't attend a very important meeting due to financial difficulties and we knew the consequences.

Livonia Parks and Recreation. said his budget was trimmed this and air fare would have been about $400, according to Reinke.

"We do not have out-of-state pense. I offered Mr. Gray that."

Gray said LCBL coaches were told of the financial difficulties and that a coach could attend the meeting to represent the LCBL but "no one came forward."

Entry fee for each team is about $600. The teams could have collected an additional $60 from the seven clubs to send a representative to the meeting or just ask Ken Wandzel, a coach and player in the league the last several vears, to go.

to do something about it," Gray said. "Any coach who wanted to attend we would have had to write a letter seeding them. Some of the guys didn't feel they could get the money from their sponsors.

Wandzel, who joined Hines Park as a manager just before the sesson said he didn't know about the March 1 meeting or he would have attended.

"Everyone is always talking about making the league better, Wandzel said. "For them not to attend the meeting, something like that shouldn't happen.'

Walter's Appliance assistant coach Harvey Weingarden said going to the regional means more money out of the sponsor's pockets if the team reaches Johns-

"It could cost an additional $700 to 800 and that's more than the cost of the meeting," he said.

Joe Vondracek, coach of first-year LCBL member Westland Federation, said having to go to the regional is no big deal.

'I imagine people from (firstplace) Hines Park are unhappy. Vondracek said. "But most of the quality national tournaments you have to win a regional to get there. It doesn't seem out of line to me.

Vardar III players make run the Michigan Soccer Association men's team reached the finals of the U.S. Amateur Soccer Association's 1993 Donnelly Cup — but could get no further, losing 2-0 to California Sunday in Indianapo-

The Michigan team, comprised almost entirely of Vardar III team members (only Greg Wilson, of TKO, a Kalamazoo Central HS grad, is not from Vardar III). reached the final four of the Donnelly Cup by winning its first-ever Region IV title May 29-30 in Rockford, Ill.

Other final four participants were Region I winner New York, Region III victor Florida, and California, the Region IV champ. In the semifinals, Michigan routed Florida 5-0 while California defeated New York 3-0.

In the win over Florida, Michigan was led by a pair of Oakland University standouts, forward Mali Walton (Flint), who scored three goals, and keeper Mike Sheehy (Farmington HS), who posted the shutout.

Tony Jones (Evansville and Kalamazoo Central) and Wilson also got goals for Michigan, which led 2-0 at the half.

The final against California was scoreless through the opening half. The first goal came in the 60th minute: the clincher, scored with Michigan pushing forward looking for a game-tying opportunity, came in the 75th minute.

Other team members were Tom Baker (Virginia and Plymouth Salem): Tim Hardy (Indiana and Warren DeLaSalle); Mike Clark (Indiana and Detroit Country Day); Joel Russell (Stanford and Country Day); Greg Lalas (Brown and Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook): Jeff Thomas (Detroit-Mercy and Livonia Stevenson); Travis Roy (Wisconsin-Madison and Stevenson); Scott Lamphere (Wisconsin-Madison and Stevenson); regional semifinal — terrible.

"They were bad," he said in describing the Marauders' opponent, Fort Wayne (Ind.) Sport Club. Fort Wayne proved it in Sunday's regional championship match, getting thumped by Scott Gallagher of St. Louis 8-0.

But a day earlier, in a match played at Oakland University. Fort Wayne put three goals on the board before the Marauders could answer, then held on for a 3-2 victory in the semifinals.

'We'll have to play better than that because every team we have left in the (Great Lakes Men's) league is better than the team we lost to," said Pettersson.

The Marauders were handicapped somewhat. Midfielders Mike Gentile and Paul Kaliszewski (both from Livonia Churchill) missed the match; Gentile was with the under-19 state team at a tournament in St. Louis, and Kaliszewski had to sit out due to the two yellow cards he received in the previous Cup match.

Also missing was Scott Weiger, who accompanied the Michigan men's team to the Donnelly Cup tournament in Indianapolis. And another midfielder, John Gentile (Churchill and OU), hampered by a groin injury.

Still, Pettersson was convinced the Marauders were the better side. But Fort Wavne scored two unanswered goals in the first half and made it 3-0 10 minutes into the second.

Robbie Ludwig pulled the Marauders to within 3-2, scoring goals in the 60th and the 78th

Everyone's gone. Maybe that's not so bad. After all, last season Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team managed just six wins in 27 games. The Ocelots had only two wins in 16 Eastern Confer-

Their best player, 6-foot-7 center Jarvis Murray, has graduated and accepted a scholarship to the University of Massachusetts-Lowell. Mohammed Abdrabboh, a 6-5 forward, has completed his junior college eligibility and is headed to Mercyhurst College in Erie, Pa.

Others have departed for a variety of reasons. The one forsure returnee is Redford Catholic Central grad Steve Whitlow, a 6-5 forward from Farmington. Whitlow started and averaged nearly 15 points per game, earning honorable mention all-conference honors.

It is Whitlow SC coach Dave Bogataj will construct his 1993-94 team around. Two other veterans, 6-6 forward Bryant Markowicz and 6-6 forward Jerome Carter, could be back, but both are questionable

Markowicz went academically ineligible at mid-season last season; his status is still in doubt. Carter injured his knee and underwent reconstructive surgery; he is still in rehabilita-

Bogataj labels himself as a "perpetual optimist." so it's not surprising to hear him laud his newcomers. But his optimism does have a basis — defense

Hard workers, all

"I really believe we'll be better defensively," he insisted, with conviction. "These kids are all blue-collar workers.'

Hard-nosed is another description Bogataj applied often to the nine players he has received commitments from. None are star-quality, he noted. "The big-name players you never get," he said.

BASKETBALL

But: "These kids all started and they're athletes. And they're multi-sport athletes, too. They played more than one sport in high school and more than one position in basketball. They have versatility."

That is a necessary ingredient for any successful junior college program — more so at SC, where the roster never remains intact through an entire Bogataj's recruiting goals are simple, really: get good athletes. Rebounders, runners and shooters, dribblers and passers. If a player possesses more than a couple of those traits, SC has a roster spot waiting for them.

First the rebounders. Adam Roy, at 6-6 and 215 pounds, qualifies as such. The Livonia Stevenson grad averaged double-figures in points and rebounds, with outside scoring potential. Bogataj described him as "aggressive.

Then there's Tim Burns, 6-5 from Romulus. "He did all the dirty work," said Bogataj, averaging nearly nine rebounds a

And Tony Maciejewski; 6-5 from Belleville, another doublefigure rebounder who played a lot of center as a senior and is "good around the boards."

Variety of talents

Part two - the in-betweeners. Bogataj has picked up a pair of Oak Park grads who should help: Schawn Brown, a 6-4 forward, and Bernard Tynes, a 6-2 guard. Both can score - Tynes was one of the Redskins top point-producers and both play tenacious defense. Brown usually covered their opponents' best forward, while Tynes defended the top guard.

The leader in this category, however, should be Mark Cady of New Boston Huron, a 6-3 bit of everything. As Bogataj described him: "This kid's a good ballplayer — he played power forward, guard, center and ran He'll play off-guard for SC. 'He can shoot," assured Bogataj, "and he's a tough defensive kid."

Another shooter: Milton Stoudemire, 6-1 from Huron Valley Lutheran, whom Bogataj labeled as a "great scorer." That's something no team can have enough of. But the position that has seemed to cause SC the most trouble in the past two seasons is point guard. Bogataj has two possible solutions to that prob-

Help at the point

First is Ricky Mitchell, a 6foot graduate of East Catholic who wanted to play at SC last year but couldn't enroll due to transportation troubles. He enrolled for the spring semester and will be ready for the season.

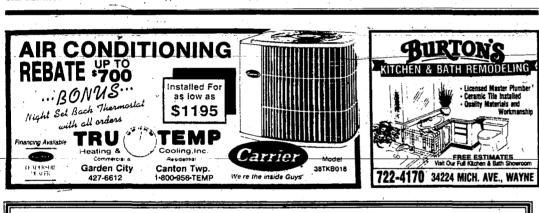

Choice No. 2 at the point is a Whitlow-type: Bob Schneider, another 6-footer who graduated from, but did not play at, Plymouth Salem. Schneider attended Catholic Central (as did Whitlow) and played for two years before transferring, after experiencing some problems (like Whitlow, who did not play his senior year at CC).

Those nine newcomers are not the end of Bogataj's recruiting. Other offers have been made, but commitments have not been obtained.

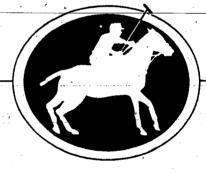

And, even though this team may be better defensively, Bogataj makes no promises regarding improvement. "I just want us to play good ball all year," he said. "The wins will

Maybe not a lot of them, though, judging from the conference competition. As Bogataj noted, Highland Park CC has the conference's best two returning big men, Henry Ford CC has a strong returning backcourt, Mott CC has three starters back, and Oakland CC is well-stocked everywhere.

Which makes SC's road to respectability an uphill struggle – as usual.

Top Mantle teams invade Bird Memorial invite

BY BRAD EMONS

Getting sick and tired of watching Tiger baseball?

Then try the sixth annual Bob Bird Memorial Tournament, which runs today through Sunday. It features some of the country's top 15-16 year-old Mickey Mantle-age sandlot teams.

Action takes place at five different sites, including Westland John Glenn, Plymouth Canton and Salem highs. Madonna University Park and Redford's Capitol Park will also host games.

The 12-team field, divided into two divisions, returns the Baltimore-Yankee Rebels, two-time defending Bird Memorial champi-

Other out-state teams vying for the prestigious title include the SANDLOT

Midland Indians of Cincinnati, Ohio, coached by former Xavier University coach Larry Redwine; Cincinnati Nuckols, the A's of Akron, Ohio, the Yankee Nationals of Bayside N.Y., the Crystal Lake/Northern Lights of Waukegan, Ill., the Bulls of Franklin, Ind. and the Titans of Windsor, Ontario.

Michigan teams include Janssen Refrigeration of Sterling Heights, Grossi of Flint, the Detroit Police Athletic League Eagles and host Westland Federation America.

Coach Jerry Pitcher's Westland squad is 8-5 overall after going 2-4 last weekend in the Cincinnati

Midland Tourney. The host team plays in two local leagues. America is 4-1 in the Little Caesars Amateur Baseball Federation and 2-0 in the Southeast Michigan Baseball Association.

Westland America area players nclude second baseman Mike Brusseau (Redford Catholic Central High), catcher Nick James (John Glenn), utility infielder Chris Turner (John Glenn) and pitcher Mike Williams (Farmington High).

Williams, a tall left-hander. pitched four scoreless innings of relief last weekend in a loss to Midland.

"We always get spanked pretty good down there every year," Pitcher said of the Cincinnati tourney. "But we had some good pitching performances last week-

Jason Copeland, a right-hander from Southgate Anderson, and Mitch Jabczenski, a lefty from Novi, were effective in their pitching stints.

Westland America, which plays all of its games at John Glenn High, begins action at noon today against Bayside before taking on Baltimore at 6.

On Friday, Westland America meets Franklin, Ind. at 9 a.m. and Detroit PAL at 6 p.m.

Saturday's schedule Westland against Nuckols at noon and Crystal Lake at 6 p.m.

The championship game, featuring the teams with the top record in each six-team pool, is set for noon Sunday at Glenn.

Admission is free and concessions are available.

Concealed Security wins Pennsylvania tourney

The Concealed Security Connie Mack baseball team won the Western Pennsylvania Baseball Classic last weekend.

Concealed Security won six of seven games to take the tournament which included 24 teams from Michigan, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Concealed Security, 14-3 overall, beat Pittsburgh, 10-1, in the championship game. Concealed scored five runs in the sixth inning, highlighted by Tim White's leadoff home run. White was 2for-4 and Greg Nesbitt (Westland John Glenn) was the winning pitcher and also contributed a two-run single in the sixth.

Nesbitt scattered seven hits, struck out seven and walked five in a complete-game performance.

The catalyst behind Concealed's run for the title was behind Craig Peterson, who was 9-18 with nine runs scored, seven RBI and a

.640 on-base percentage.
"If they had an MVP, Craig would have been a shoo-in." Concealed coach Lou Pirronello said. "He started out seven for 10 and everone pitched around him, or tried to, the rest of the way."

Concealed, which got routed in a game Tuesday against Ann Arbor, is playing in a tournament this weekend in Cincinnati. One of the opponents is defending national champion Cincinnati Midland.

J.R. Taylor enjoyed a big weekend in Pennsylvania, going 8-for-20 with a team-high nine RBI. Eric Marcotte (Canton) was 6-14 with three RBI and seven runs scored; White hit .333 with five RBI and Nesbitt had six RBI and batted 6-19.

Concealed advanced to the final after beating Westland Federation, 5-4, in the semifinal. Craig Benedict (Canton) earned the pitching victory, overcoming a slow start to win a complete game. Benedict allowed only two hits but walked seven and hit two hatters.

"It was a poorly played game the first three innings, then the pitchers buckled down," Pirronello said.

Mike Syjud's sacrifice fly in the third gave Concealed-its fifth run. Jeff Martin went 1-3 with an RBI.

Concealed gave Lyndora, the host team, its first loss of the season in a quarterfinal matchup, 9-Winning pitcher Joel Hillebrand allowed five hits and struck out nine in the game which ended after five innings because of the seven-run mercy rule.

Paul Kuhn (Redford Catholic Central) was 2-3 with two RBI and Marcotte had two hits and an RBI. Peterson had an RBI and Taylor contributed two RBI.

Concealed went through divisional play with three wins and a

It opened with a 9-1 win over South Hills (Pa.). Holland was the winning pitcher, allowing three hits and one walk in five innings, another mercy verdict. Nesbitt had an RBI single and Peterson an RBI double.

Concealed beat Brad-Mar Pines (Pa.) 7-6 in the second game as Jake Syjud, pitching in relief of Tim White, earned the victory. Peterson was 3-4 and Kuhn and Taylor each collected two hits. Nesbitt clubbed a homer in the sixth to highlight a five-run Concealed enjoyed a laugher in its next game, whipping Morgan-town (W.Va.) 20-0 as Brett Walter (Redford CC) threw a no-hitter in his first outing.

'Morgantown was a bad team but he threw a no-no and we gave him the game ball," Pirronello Concealed's 18-hit attack was led by leadoff batter Kevin Foley, who went 5-5 with two RBI and four runs scored.

Nesbitt, Murray and Marcotte each had two hits. Tim Holland had a bases-loaded triple.

Concealed lost its only game of the tournament to Elm Grove

Mitchell feels like King during NHL draft day

BY DAVE BONDY Staff Writer

Most young athletes often dream about what it would be like to play for a professional sports

For most it is just a dream, but for 18-year-old Jeff Mitchell of Wayne, it's a little closer to reali-

Mitchell, who attended Westland Huron Valley Lutheran High, was taken by the Los Angeles Kings in the third round (68th overall) in the NHL's 1993 entry draft Saturday at the Le Colisee in Quebec City.

This past season, the right winger played with the Detroit Junior Red Wings of the (OHL) Ontario Hockey League. In his rookie season with the Junior Wings, Mitchell scored 10 goals, including a pair of game-winning goals, to go along with 15 assists. He had 100 penalty minutes in 62

Mitchell and his family just returned from Quebec City where they attended the draft.

Waiting for the news

His mother, Gloria said the draft was very hard to sit through. "I knew he was going to be drafted, we sat there for five hours, I wish we could go back to the draft knowing what we know now and enjoy it," she said.

"You're too nervous to enjoy it." Jeff was also up tight.

"I was scared, a lot of European players were being drafted and I was starting to get concerned, but when the Kings drafted me I was relieved," he said. "The pressure was off.'

Jeff was shocked when the Kings drafted him.

"I thought it would be the New Jersey Devils," he said. "When the Kings called my name I was shocked. It was the greatest experience of my life.'

The night of the draft, Mitchell was given a Kings jersey and cap. He was also introduced to head coach Barry Melrose, owner Bruce McNall, and other front office personnel.

Back to Junior Wings

Mitchell is now property of the Kings, but more than likely continue playing with the Junior Wings at least for another season before hooking up with one of Kings' farm clubs.

A year ago, Mitchell had to make a decision — wait and play college hockey, or go with the Junior Red Wings. As his senior year began, nearly ever hockey school in the nation offered him a scholarship, including the University of Michigan and Michigan

"Two years ago the last place I wanted to play hockey was in the OHL, but now it's probably the greatest things I've ever done," Mitchell said. "If I played college hockey, I wouldn't have been drafted because the collegiate level is not scouted as well as the OHL is.

"When I was growing up, my dream was to play college hockey, but when I talked to the Junior Wings, they changed my mind. My parents were concerned about my college education, but I'll still go to college at Eastern Michigan in the fall. In my contract with the Junior Wings, it states that the Wings will pay for my college education.

Future obligations

Once Mitchell does join the Kings, they will pick up his con-tract and also pay for the remainder of his schooling.

According to player personnel director of the Junior Wings, Dave Greeley, there are at least pro 10 scouts regularly attending Junior Wings games.

Meanwhile, college players are not allowed to talk to professional teams or attend their camps.

Overall, the Junior Wings had seven players taken in the draft. Mitchell's good friend and teammate Jason Saal was also drafted by the Kings (fifth round).

Hockey runs in the Mitchell family, Jeff's brother Jimmy is a sophomore on the Kent State University hockey team and will be eligible for NHL's college supplementary draft next year.

Setting goals

Mitchell said that getting to the pros will take a lot of hard work, dedication, and support from his family.

"You have to be dedicated to the game, you have to set a goal and achieve it," he said. "If I wouldn't have had my parents helping me to achieve my goals, I don't think I ever would have made it. Your parents are the number one thing.

With that in mind, Mitchell may be someday playing along side another local product with

DSO festival salutes Tchaikovsky

Symphony Orchestra concerts saluting Tchaikovsky July 9-18 at Orchestra Hall in Detroit will be a ray of light in an otherwise sparse of-fering of classical events this summer.

A series of Detroit

While many of the concert selections will consist of the popular and familiar, there will be some rare items as well. Each concert will be preceded by a pre-concert feature. Among these will be a performance by the St. Clair Trio 7:30 p.m. Saturday, July 10.

Formed nearly four years ago, the trio is gaining in prominence. It consists of pianist, Pauline Martin of West Bloomfield; cellist, Marcy Chanteaux; and violinist, Emanuelle Boivert. Chanteaux is the assistant principal cellist of the DSO and Boivert is its concertmaster.

Martin brings with her a rich pianistic heritage inspired by her teachers including Menahem Pressler, pianist of the Beaux Arts Trio which is universally considered among the best of its kind.

For the past few years Martin has successfully balanced her musical career with raising a family. In addition to her many local performances, she has also concertized in Canada and Europe, including Iceland, the native country of her husband.

On July 10, the St. Clair Trio will perform Tchaikovsky's "Trio in A minor" a seldom heard landmark work.

The Trio was inspired by the death of Nicholas Rubinstein, founder of the Moscow Conservatory and brother of famed pianist and composer Anton Rubinstein (no relation to Artur Rubinstein).

The piano part of "The Trio in A minor" is demanding, as are all of Tchaikovsky's piano writings. But the significant musical content of this work, according to Martin, shifts the focus of concentration to the music, rather than technical showmanship and virtuosity which more shallow pieces tend to evoke.

Martin also pointed out some of the other positive aspects of the Tchaikovsky Festival.

Another pre-concert feature will be an onstage conversation 7 p.m. Friday, July 16, between DSO artistic administrator Willa Rouder and DSO librarian Elkhonon Yoffe.

While we all take for granted Tchaikovsky's role as a major Russian composer, few are aware of his visit to America.

Little Leaguer buoys Chicago Cubs in 'Rookie of the Year'

Comedy: Thomas Ian Nicholasstars as Henry Rowengartner in 'Rookie of the Year," a comedy opening July

TWENTIETH CENTURY FOX

Twelve-year-old Henry Rowen gartner dreams the dreams of most Little League players his age: Hitting the game-winning homer in the ninth, pitching a shutout or making a diving catch. Sadly, Henry's reality is that he is an enthusiastic yet somewhat clumsy ballplayer.

It's those two qualities that lead Rowengartner to suffer a serious break to the arm. When he heals four months later, something very unusual happens in "Rookie of the Year," a comedy directed by actor Daniel Stern 'Home Alone'') opening Wednesday, July 7 in suburban movie theaters.

Rowengartner makes the leap from Little League to major leagues when the accident endows him with a magical pitching arm that may just bring a pennant to his beloved, long-suffering Chicago Cubs.

Twentieth Century Fox presents a Robert Harper production of a Daniel Stern Film, "Rookie of Musical 'stars' shine in Livonia

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN -SPECIAL WRITER

If you've ever wondered how an orchestra's brass section sounds live under the stars, here's your chance to hear firsthand.

The Livonia Arts Commission and Parks and Recreation Department in cooperation with Detroit Federation of Musicians Loral 5 presents the first concert in oc Under the State 1993" nureday July 1, at the Livonia Civic Par 35 7 Five

Civic i, Five Mile and rainington Road. Show time is 7:30 p.m. for the night of big band music featuring Johnny Trudell and his orchestra. "The intent of Music Under the Stars is to entertain the community, so they can come as a family, a couple or by themselves. They can drive or ride their bikes, bring their strollers, their children, re lax and enjoy the music," said arts commission president, Betty Newton.

"Seniors and the physically impaired come and sit in their cars with the windows down. It's so accessible to everyone. It's not like an auditorium. You can drop in or out saytime. If you work late or don't finish supper until 7:30 p.m., you can still come."

Newton encourages you bring your own lawn chairs or blankets because the park fills quickly. Midwest Guaranty Bank is sponsoring the first concert, and there will be free popcorn.

Meadow Brook hosts Oldies Extravaganza

Once again, Zambelli Internationale will light up the sky above the Meadow Brook Music Festival on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester for this year's Fourth of July fireworks celebration.

The weekend kicks off with the electrifying James Brown on Friday, July 2. Saturday, July 3, Wolfman Jack hosts an Oldies Extravaganza featuring The Platters, the Coasters and The Drifters.

Sunday, July 4 is topped off by The Temptations and The Four Tops. After each concert. there will be a spectacular fireworks display. All shows begin at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $27.50 per person for pavilion and $15 for lawn. Pavilion seats for the July 3 Oldies Show are $22.50. Tickets are available at the Meadow Brook Box Office and all Ticketmaster outlets. To charge tickets, call 645-6666. For more information, call 396-

Fireworks have been a thrilling source of entertainment since the 17th century, having originated in India and Japan. Founded over 100 years ago, Zambelli Internationale is one of the most-sought after fireworks companies in the world.

Zambelli fireworks have graced such affairs as presidential inaugurations and the 1986 Statue of Liberty celebra-

Kicking off the holiday concert weekend is the "Godfather of Soul," James Brown. Brown will perform songs off his first studio album in three years en-titled "Love Over Due."

Hosting this year's Oldies Show is Bob Smith — better known to his listening and viewing audiences as Wolfman Jack! The Wolfman will introduce three of the most popular groups of the 1950s and 1960s The Platters, The Coasters, and The Drifters.

The Platters will bring back fond memories with songs such "The Great Pretender," 'The Magic Touch," "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," and "Only

Joining The Platters are the supreme comedians of rock-and-roll The Coasters. Their sweet harmonies, comedy and smiles render timeless hits 'Charlie such as Brown,""Yakety yak," and Love Potion Number 9."

With a career spanning over 25 years, The Drifters continue to thrill fans with such classics as "There Goes My Baby," and 'Under The Boardwalk.'

Concluding the weekend are two of the most famous groups from the Motown era, The Temptations and The Four Tops. The Temptations have entertained audiences for over 30 years with great hits such as "Just My Imagination," "My Girl," and "Papa Was A Rolling Stone."

The Four Tops were also major contributors to the Motown sound. Crowned "The Princes of Motown," the Four Tops are known for songs of love, happiness and heartbreak. They will be performing songs off their new album "Indestructible," as well as the classic "Baby I Need Your Lovin" and "I Can't Help Myself."

Some 620 employees work out of corporate headquarters in Farmington Hills, at subsidiaries in Chicago, Bridgewater, N.J., San Francisco, Atlanta, Washington D.C. and London, England, or directly with clients in their plants and offices, Vattikuti said.

"I felt the market was pretty much ready for this (Complete Business Solutions) based on my experience that not a lot of national companies can meet demands with quality resources," he Responsiveness is the key to business success, Vattikuti maintains.

!"Customers out there are desperate," he said. "Overall, to compete globally, they need computer systems. Our strength is to move

Complete Business Solutions has developed computer systems for applications in the automotive manufacturing, banking, retail and insurance claims processing arenas.

"We're recognized as experts in some areas and we've carved a niche and grown in those areas state government, revamping child-support systems, welfare systems, DNR, transportation systems," he said.

Vattikuti said his first big job and big break was a five-year pro gram to develop a major financial computer network for an international company headquartered in Belgium. Friends put him on to that opportunity, he said.

Nearly 30 of 50 people he recruited for the project eventually went to work directly for the client, he said.

Vattikuti shies away from longterm debt, preferring to grow by reinvesting profits. He said his goal is to reach sales of $43 million this year and $100 million within five years.

'Our profits are at or above the industry average," said Tim Manney, chief financial officer. "We're investing profits back into the company for training and sys-

Raising Mr. Bulky

Mr. Bulky Treats & Gifts is Rubin's second successful entrepreneurial venture. He founded and ran Circus World, a toy shop for nearly 20 years before selling all 165 of those stores in 1982.

Two years later, Rubin purchased a minority interest in Mr. Bulky, a company that spurned processed, brand name, prepackaged food products and gave consumers the ability to buy exactly as much as they wanted from storage bins on site.

In 1987, Rubin bought out his partners and took over day-to-day control and management of the company.

There are similarities and differences in selling toys and treats Rubin said.

'Aside from the fact that both are fun businesses, which is one criteria I have in any business venture I get involved in, . . candy appeals to more than just children. Our buyers in candy car range in age from five years old all the way up to 75 years old.'

Rubin grew his business by of fering franchise opportunities, es tablishing company stores, constantly monitoring and studying his customer base, acquiring so phisticated information systems and attracting money and retai expertise from other investors.

At the beginning of this year Mr. Bulky Treats & Gifts had 71 corporate outlets and 90 franchise stores, each about 1,500 square feet located in regional malls Some 2,000 are employed at head quarters in Troy and in company

Rubin projects sales this year of $75 million and 50 more store openings

'We think there's another 2,500 more locations that could satisfy opportunities like ours," he said think future growth will come from internal financing.

"Our mission is to have the right product at the right price at the right place at the right time.' Rubin said. "I think that comes with surrounding yourself with first-class personnel that signs or to the same mission and sings the same song every day.

"It takes a lot of focus, a lot o: hard work and quite a few sacrifices along the way, but never losing sight of the big picture," Rubin said. "More doesn't equal bet ter. Better equals more

His wild, wacky messages ring straight and true to Realtors

About this time every year, John Tenza, a motivational speaker who mingles humor with magic, stands before a group of real estate professionals with a large piece of driftwood in his

"I just remind agents that this is the time of year people really come out of the woodwork," said Tenza, president and founder of Question Master Inc. in Ann Arbor. "The kids are out of school and families want to move into larger homes before classes start up again in September.

Tenza is also partial to dressing up like a troll to play out agent fears, waving a staff-like Moses to separate serious buyers from lookers and throwing fire from his hands to consume bad habits.

"The most important thing -that I can get across in a sales training seminar is that professional selling is questioning and not telling," said Tenza; a former real estate owner and broker for 14 years.

"If you question your client about their needs and desires, and then work toward those goals, the client will always know that you're working on their behalf. If you try to tell clients what to do, you've lost them.

To drive home his point, Tenza will use bricks during the course of a seminar to demonstrate how trust between an agent and client is built up one block at a time. During a break, he'll switch the stone brick with one made of foam and wait for the class to return.

When someone asks a question, Tenza will hurl the foam brick across the room. Why?

"It keeps people on their toes and gives them a great reference point for recalling the lesson, said Tenza, who belongs to a handful of magician clubs.

"Education today should be fun and informative. We're in the MTV generation and people don't want color TV, they want it with a clicker and 150 channels. You have to provide a zing every three to seven seconds or you've lost calls "high-tech, high-touch seminars" has fueled incredible growth for Question Master. This year, Tenza said he is booked for 165 programs, his best output since he opened the firm in November, 1988.

Most recently, Tenza developed a unique biweekly training program for the Remerica Real Estate Corp. in Plymouth. Remerica, which specializes in residential properties, opened a month after Tenza and currently has 13 outlets in western Wayne and northern Oakland counties.

"John had been providing seminers for us off and on, and finally in February we signed him to do a seminar for our agents every two weeks, for a three-hour session,' said Jim Courtney, Remerica's president. "Our feeling is you can never have enough training.

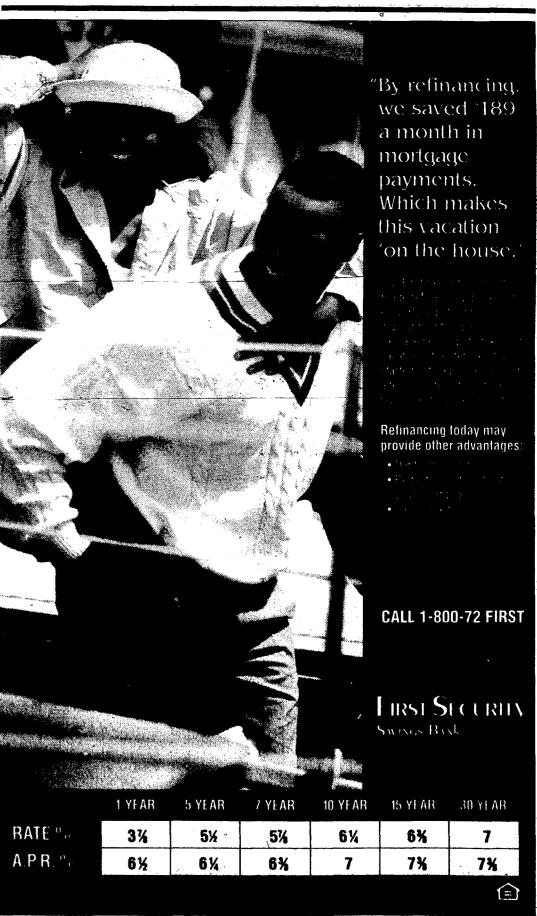

"There's always something you need to work on or refine and the market's always changing. The topics change every session so he might do one on prospecting, or selling the seller, or how to handle cold calls or handling objections. John has been a great asset in our

Courtney said between 50 and 70 agents attend each seminar. There is $10 charge for materials for each program.

Success at Remerica and Question Master appear to go hand in hand. Remerica is on target to open 25 branch offices in Michigan by the end of 1994. Franchises, which run $2,995 apiece as compared to $20,000 or more other real estate firms charge, will be expanded to surrounding states in early 1995.

Meanwhile, Tenza will conduct two seminars before the Michigan Association of Realtors in October. His rates are $1,000 for a onehour session, $1,500 for three hours and $2,500 for an all-day af-

"The real estate companies just eat me up," said Tenza. "They know I was out on the street just like them. I've door-knocked over 20,000 homes so I know what it's like to cold-sell. The best advice is to always listen to the client."

Is behavior constructive, destructive?

find themselves playing referee to a fighting match between their children or someone else's. It's so easy to start yelling and screaming out of frustration and disappointment.

Sometimes a parent or adult chooses to tune out all explanations as to who started it or how it started —who hit who and so on — and punish all parties involved. If a lamp or perhaps a favorite vase breaks as kids duke it out, that adds more fuel to a fiery situation.

'Look what happened. You kids tear up every-

Whether it's breaking up a fight, cleaning up a child's big mess or pulling or piecing together something smashed or broken, dealing with destructive behavior is annoying and can be exhausting for most parents and caregivers.

Children go through a process of learning to control their actions and dealing with the world around them at an early age. Mobile baby soon learns that teething rings are for sucking and telephone and electrical appliance cords are not. During the early exploration periods, young children will break, rip, chew, bang, take apart and totally destroy a household item.

This behavior may also be displayed by older children, 4, 5, even 7 years or older. For example, a 6-year-old takes apart your toaster or clock. Is this destructive or curiosity at work? Because safety often becomes a factor, first use "red-light" intervention techniques. Remind children of possible electrical shocks. Channel what could be perceived as destructive behavior or actions to a more appropriate ase of energy. Give a child something he or she can take apart, explore and put together. An old clock, broken toy or perhaps a variety of junk items you have stashed.

The child who breaks windows playing ball may be labeled destructive when in fact his or her coordination is not quite developed. Patience and understanding helps while children struggle through

Climbing on and breaking items that won't support a child's weight — a weak footrest, wobbly small table or baby bassinet — again should not be viewed automatically as bad or destructive. Children often feel if they gently climb on something it's OK, it will support their weight regardless. Sometimes weight isn't a concern at all.

What about the 9-year-old who frequently knocks things over or slides down stairway railngs, weakening and eventually breaking ther sliding down the rail is a good and reasonable rule. More importantly, if the child breaks the railing, look at ways to involve him or her in repairing or replacing whatever they were responsible for damaging or destroying.

Once in a while destruction is deliberate and usually involves more that one child. Children in a group will do things they wouldn't dream of doing on their own. Together, they will break windows, raid a house under construction and generally cause trouble in the neighborhood. Why?

Blame it on youthful energy when there's nothing better to do, and on every child's desire at some point to be part of "the gang.

You can help him or her face the results of such actions by stressing the rights of others and the cost of repairs (which he or she should help pay

If there's a lot of damage in your community, talk over the problem with other parents, Scoutmasters, youth workers or public health nurses. A destructive gang can often become a constructive group with a little help.

Make use of the resources in your community. A parent-teacher association, department of parks and recreation, or school principal can help to organize group trips. Visits to a bakery, fire station, factory, soft drink plant, etc., can be fun and edu-

Help is available if you need it. The first step is to find out why willfully destructive actions are displayed. Problems may start with jealousy of a sibling, unhappiness at school or worry about family conflicts.

Don't hesitate to seek professional help. Talk to your public health nurse, family doctor, clergy-man, social worker, guidance counselor at school or community youth worker or advocate. Punishment is not only the answer.

You can also get more information in a series of leaflets about family life with young children from the National Mental Health Association, 1021 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. 22314.

Part of the problem is the shelf life of the blood. Ninty-nine percent of the blood donated is broken down into components — plasma, platelets and red cells - that have shelf lives ranging from five days to 10 years, depending on how they are stored.

Blood collected in the five-county region winds up at the agency's offices in Detroit for processing. From the receiving dock, the containers head for the component lab, where a centrifuge is used to first separate the plasma and platelets from the red cells, then the plasma from the platelets.

At one time, the demand was for red cells, but with a variety of new treatments, especially for cancer, platelets are the most-sought-after component. But platelets are the most fickle. They prefer to be stored at room temperature in a state of constant of agitation. And even with that or just five days

The cover to the 1991-92 annual report for the American Red Cross Southeast Michigan Blood Services Region may offer the most telling reason why blood donation is so important: "1991-92 . . . When 237,378 ten minutes meant one million life-

The process includes registering, giving a brief medical history and having your temperature, blood pressure and hemoglobin checked. The actual donation takes less than 10 minutes and is relatively painless. Afterwards, donors are given juice and cookies to help restore blood fluid levels.

Most healthy people 17 years and older who meet basic donor criteria can donate blood every eight weeks. However, those older than age 71 may need a letter from their doctor.

Blood donation can be arranged by calling 494-2800 or (800) 582-4383 for the Detroit area, 971-1500 in Ann Arbor and 985-7117 in Port Huron for an appointment at one of 10 donor centers in the metropolitan area:

This very large, legible handwriting tells us the writer is a social person. She is friendly and wants to communicate with others, so it is easy to understand how difficult it must be for her to make the move to an unfamiliar area away from family and friends. However, I feel this will only be a temporary condition as she has the tools to develop new friends and to become involved in activities with them.

She wants her relationships to flow as smoothly as her handwriting does. And she has a sense of humor to add fun and laughter.

Family and security are a most meaningful part of her. She was raised in a home where the mores of society were stressed. She tends to monitor her outer behavior to reflect this training.

Don't look for this woman behind the scenes. She will be out and about. She has an inner desire to be outstanding and a need for recognition and acceptance.

She does not play the waiting game too well. She wants immediate gratification of her needs. She is occupied with her own ego and seeks room for the expression of her personality.

She is probably happiest doing things on a grand scale and can sparkle in a group. Large issues are of much interest to her. Details are much less important. Let someone else handle them, she probably feels.

Intuition weaves throughout her handwriting. It should be beneficial when meeting new people and situations as well as in her new business venture.

At the risk of sounding paradoxical. I want to mention her optimistic nature first as I feel it is her most natural way of viewing life. However, there is evidence of some down feelings at this particular time. I suspect they may be the result of her recent move. Leaving family and friends behind and facing the problems and challenges of getting settled in a new environment can take its toll.

Our writer is results-oriented. She knows what she wants and goes after it. Interest in material possessions can be a motivating

She is more inclined to move right into a project and do the planning as she progresses. Imagination is good and she has a love of form, possibly-creative talent,

Although she is open-minded, she is not gullible. Her mind is always working ahead, often finding viable solutions to problems or situations.

Reticence is pervasive throughout her handwriting. This tends to maker her extremely careful about the things she is willing to share with others. Often a quick retort/lies in wait when she feels pressured by another person.

A love of beauty, especially the beauty of nature, can be seen here. The gorgeous summer flowers bursting on the scene at this time should provide a measure of pleasure for her.

Alexander and Janette Calder of Livonia were the guests at a reception marking their 60th wedding anniversary. More than 60 friends and relatives, some from Nevada and Kentucky, attended.

The Calders were married June 1, 1933, in Highland Park and lived there and in Detroit until moving to Livonia in 1951.

Their four sons — George, Neil, Gary and Kenneth — graduated from Livonia Bentley High School. The Calders also have five trick, Cari and Christopher.

For their 50th anniversary, the couple renewed their vows in a ceremony at St. Matthew United Methodist Church, where they are members. For their 60th anniversarv, the Calders wrote a story about their growing up, copies of which were given to each of their children and grandchildren.

Red cells, with the addition of nutrients (to feed the cells), are kept refrigerated and can be stored for 37-42 days. But by washing the liquid until just the red cells remain and mixing in glycerin, they can be frozen without damaged to the cells for up to 10 years.

Plasma may be the most enduring. Once separated from the red cells and platelets, it heads for the freezer, where it's kept until needed. Some plasma is slotted to. be sent to a factory where it is broken down into fractions bumin used to treat certain kidney and liver diseases, or gamma globulin, which contains antibodies and Factor VII used to treat patients with classic hemophilia.

'There's two reasons for breaking down blood into its components." Cornillie said. "One is it's more efficient. If you have a cancer patient who needs only platelets, he can get that rather than getting plasma which he doesn't heed. And one donation can end up treating several people."

Careful process

But before the bags even make it to the centrifuges, Red Cross employees weigh them to make sure each one weighs between 520 and 620 grams. Too little blood in the bag is indication of a lack of proper anticoagulants and nutrients and vice versa, if the bag's too full.

Once the blood has been processed, the finished product is placed in a quarantine refrigerator where it is kept until tests are completed on the pilot tubes of blood that were collected during the initial blood donation.

First stop is the Enzyme-Immuno Assay Lab, where most of the tests are done for infectious - HIV-1 and HIV-2, which cause AIDS, ALT (an enzyme that's an indicator of an inflammation of the liver), hepatitis B and C and human T-cell viruses. Blood samples are incubated for each of the tests.

"Actusally, hepatitis was more of a problem for the blood supply than HIV." said Cornillie. 'There's a one in 225,000 chance of of getting HIV, and that's a conservative estimate. Up until 10-15 years ago, the chance of getting hepatitis from a transfusion was 10-15 percent. They've come up with a test now to detect it, and that figure is now down to 0.03 percent.

'When you hear that the blood supply is safer than it's ever been. it's because of all the tests being done for things that can be passed on through the blood.

Down the hall in the automated lab, the blood is typed and tested for syphillis. Next door, in the Reference and Consultation Lab, rare types are tracked, with the information shared with blood regions across the country. The lab also maintains a rare blood donor registry, started in December for African-Americans.

"We screen ethnically because rare bloods tend to fall within ethnic groups," Cornillie said. The factors we test for are genetically transmitted, so that's why we test by racial group.'

Final processing

Once the testing is done and the blood found safe, the bags are moved from the quarantine refrigerator to the labeling lab, where the whole blood number, a bar code assigned it when it was donated, is scanned by computer. It tells the worker several things that the testing is complete, the blood is acceptable and which type label should be placed on the bag. Once this is done, it is scanned again to verify proper labeling.

The last stop is distribution, where orders for blood are handled. As in the labeling lab, the bags are scanned one last time to make sure the right type is being packed for shipment before being put into a insulated box filled with dry ice.

The turn-around time for the donated blood, if all goes well, is 17 hours

That much time is needed until. the blood is ready for distribution, under the best circumstances, Cornillie said. "So it's really essential to have adequate supplies in case of an emergency. It's one of those dangers we face, especially during the summer."

The transformation

To address that problem, the National Red Cross is moving to a national hub system as parts of its "transformation," a reorganization plan instituted by Red Cross president Elizabeth Dole in May 1991. The idea is to make the process of collecting, testing and distributing blood the same across the country.

'Blood collection came out of World War II, and up until 1983, the only tests done were for hepatitis and syphillis," Cornillie said. "Blood wasn't processed into components, so patients were getting more whole blood. "But with the evolution of HIV and blood screening, we realized our process would have to be set up more like a pharmaceutical company with standard procedures so that testing would be uniform throughout the United States.

The transformation includes a centralized computer system with the country's 47 blood regions connected to it to share information, standard operating procedures to better regulate the quality of the blood, 14 centralized testing labs, a re-emphasis on training and recertification of employees and a combining of blood chapters and blood regions.

The regions will report daily their needs for various blood types and what they have on hand. The hub, based in St. Louis, Mo., will ship out what's needed within 24 hours

Before it was kind of like feeling around in the dark to find the needed blood products," Cornillie said.

One of the new blood labs will built adjacent to the Southeast Region's offices in Detroit and process blood for the Lansing, Flint, Toledo, Ohio, and Fort Wayne, Ind., regions. The labs will set up so that blood products can be released in 17 hours.

But even with a lab so close at hand, it won't resolve the summer blood shortage.

"Platelet usage has increased steadily with their use for the treatment of cancer and in bone marrow transplants where patients need transfusions over a period of weeks," Cornille said.

"We could potentially have enough red cells but not enough platelets, so do vou have a shortage if you have a lack of one component? The answer's yes, if you're the person who may get less of a treatment because of a lack of platelets.

"People want what they need: they're not worried about our collection problems.'

Kids Take Note wows youngsters at park concert

What do purple and green have to do with downtown Plymouth?

One answer is the striped shopping bags offered by the Chamber of Commerce for Plymouth Preferred Customers, the other is a large huggable Barnisaurous dinosaur which was seen greeting small children in Kellogg Park just before the Plymouth Community Arts Council's Wednesday noontime "Music in the Park."

Last week's concert, spon-sored by the Curious Child Shop and Pathways to Learning child day care, featured a newly formed group called, 'Kids Take Note.

Anne Shaheen, a mother of four, who is crazy about kids, hooked up with two other moms, Lauren Erickson and Lisa Daley, who love music and decided to form a quality children's musical show which wouldn't cost the price of a nationally known name concert

"I really didn't want to pay $25 a ticket for my children to enjoy expressive, professional entertainment. 'Kids Take Note' offers them a quality show right here in their own community, for only a few dollars a person," she said. "This was our first time to perform in Kellogg Park. It was like a big family having fun together. The children's eyes were so ex-

And the trio is local. Shaheen lives in Northville and with the help of her musical partners, Erickson and Daley, Shaheen produced a cassette album, "My Music and Me," with Unity Productions in Plymouth.

"The album took two, almost three months to produce, and Lauren and Lisa were s big help in putting it together," said Shaheen. The three women have been performing as the group known as "Expressive Interlude" which offers a wide repertoire of easy listening dinner and dancing music for family celebrations and weddings.

This week's concert featured the mellow sounds of the Edinborough Quartet, sponsored by Greg Goodman, owner of Bon Homme restaurant.

"We have such a jewel in Kellogg Park, why not make use of it to enhance the cultural quality of the community,' said Goodman. "There was a time when everyone used to sit out on the front porch and watch the town. Today, everyone's on their own private backyard decks, and we miss out on that sense of communi-

Peace Pastoral

Changing world calls for update

Ten years ago, in May 1983, the U.S. bishops voted to accept the pastoral letter on war and peace by a margin of 236-9. Playing a major role in the drafting of the letter was the Rev. Thomas Gumbleton, auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese Detroit and pastor of St. Leo Church in Detroit.

Gumbleton was one of the five members of the drafting committee who helped to establish, explore and explain moral and religious teachings of the Catholic Church with regards to such things as the threat of nuclear war, arms control and promoting peace and peaceful interdependence.

But a lot has change in the last decade.

"Obviously, we do not live in a world of Gumbleton said during a recent talk at St. Alexander Church in Farmington Hills. 'It is a world torn by war but also by violence of many other kinds, not permeated by violence. The Peace Pastoral must be updated. We have to find out how to apply the Peace Pastoral to where we are in the world now.'

The St. Alexander Peace and Justice Committee sponsored the speech by Gumbleton, past president and founding member of Dread for the World and Pax Christie U.S.A. The focus was the updating of the pastoral letter which will be addressed when the National Conference of Catholic Bishops meets later

Gumbleton would would like to see the bishops "make it a very strong statement," and pointed to areas he feels need more emphasis. One relates to the teaching on nuclear weapons, their use and possession as a strate gy of deterrent that was originally set forth in Gumbleton said that while many people feel the threat of nuclear war is diminished or eliminated, they have been lulled into a false sense of security as a result of the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaties and the Strategic Arms Reduction Treaties.

"Right now there are 48,000 nuclear war heads in the world, poised and ready to be used," Gumbleton warned, adding that even after full implementation of the treaties by the year 2003, there would still be more than 20,000 nuclear war heads deployed in the world, including 9,500 in the U.S. alone.

"That still leaves us with more weapons deployed and ready to be used than we had at the beginning of the Cold War back in the We have not come even close to the goal of eliminating nuclear weapons from our planet. They continue to be a threat.

A judgment

In the in the Peace Pastoral, the bishops made judgments. One of the judgments was that there would never be a morally justified use of nuclear weapons. Gumbleton believes that that needs to be emphasized even more

According to the bishop, computer models are being built and tested to enable the president to aim nuclear weapons at Third World nations that threaten the interests of the United States or its allies.

Changing times: Detroit Auxiliary Bishop Thomas Gumbleton believes the American bishops' Peace Pastoral of 1983 is in need of updating with the rapid change in the world during the last decade.

"We want to guarantee that we will be able to protect that way of life by protecting what we call our vital resources that are all over the world but and for some reasons we think of as ours and that we have a right to them like the oil in the Persian Gulf," he said. "It seems now even more than in 1983, how could you justify the use of nuclear weapons against Third World nations in order to protect our way of life. It is evil, horrendously evil."

Moral justification

U.S. national policy justifies the possession of nuclear weapons for the purpose of waging war. The Peace Pastoral ruled that out as a moral justification, but justified their possession as a "strategy of deterrent." The threat of mutual destruction was viewed as a mutual

While the letter said that a strategy of deterrents would be deemed morally acceptable only if part of a process of progressive disarmament, Gumbleton wasn't comfortable with it although he "accepted it as a valid way to try to approach this huge problem. But even with the implementation of the arms reduction treaties, we will still have the destructive capability of 200,000 Hiroshimas. And with no intent to further reduce the arsenals and no longer a process of progressive disarmament, Gumbleton firmly believes that the strong justification for the strategy no longer exists. Thus, it is immoral and must odds with public policy, but he believe there is no other direction. If President Bill Clinton ends the moratorium on nuclear testing with the dissolution of the non-proliferation treaty. established in 1970 and signed by 157 nations, there will be an open effort on the part of many, many nations, large and small to develop nuclear weapons because they will all feel that that is the only way that they will have a chance if war breaks outs," he said.

"The moral problems are greater now than they were in 1983 and the danger to our planet. is even greater than it was in 1983 because of. the danger of proliferation and the use of these weapons by many nations in a short time," he added.

'Just war'

Another point of contention for Gumbleton is the theology of "just war." The theology of non-violence was developed in the fifth century and has continued in the Christian community for 1500 years. Based on the fact that Jesus rejected violence, the "just war" theology contends that because we live in a world where we can't always control what happens around us, if very strict conditions are met, the presumption against violence may be overridden and killing can be justified.

The theology also contends that only combatants should be the targets, not non-combatants, which no longer is the case. Referring to the Persian Gulf War, Gumbleton quoted Pope John Paul II: "I myself, on the occasion of the recent tragic war in the Persian Gulf, repeatedly cried, 'Never again, war. No, never again, war,' which destroys the lives of innocent people, teaches how to kill, throws into upheaval even the lives of those who do the killing, and leaves behind a trail of resentment and hatred, thus, making it all the more difficult to find a just solution to the very problem that provoked the war.'

There are presently 3.5 billion people inhabiting this planet and nearly 2 billion live in desperate, dehumanizing conditions. Of those, 1 billion do not have even the barest necessities for human life and are dying at an alarming rate, Gumbleton pointed out.

People are literally starving to death "and yet this is a world where we grow more than enough food to feed 6 billion people," he said. Something is drastically wrong when we have enough resources in the world so every person on this planet could live a fully human life and yet, the majority of the people are living in dehumanizing or violent poverty that is killing them."

Gumbleton threw a challenge out to the church: "What if the Catholic bishops committed themselves to a hunger and water fast? If each diocese across the country, if the bishop of the diocese would call his people and lead them in that kind of a fast for seven days, no food, only water, what a dramatic way of helping all of us to realize and to experience, to some extent what is happening to the poor in our country and the world.'

And possibly Pope John Paul summed it up in his Peace Day statement of Jan. 1: "If you want peace, reach out to the poor."

as much a part of Independence Day as a tree with lights was a part of Christmas. The crepe paper treatment has not graced the mountain bike that I use today — perhaps I could consider it this year for old time's

Another thing has also changed as the Independence Days have come and gone over the years. I have come to realize that although the trappings, the decorations and the fireworks all have their place, they were never meant to take the place of the meaning

What is this day called The Fourth all about anyway? What is freedom about and what does it mean to be American? In time of war, the answers to such questhese huddled masses: "Our ideal tions come with gusto, even if at of America is a nation in which

When the fireworks lighted up the sky in New York Harbor a few years ago at the birthday celebration of that magnificent lady known as the Statue of Liberty, I wondered if perhaps the hoopla had taken over for an appreciation of what she is all about.

That thought returned to mind when I recently read Marianne Williamson's observation ("A Woman's Worth"). She suggested that the Statue on Ellis Island is like many women. Too many Americans are more fond of looking at her or of showing her off than they are of listening to her.

The message is engraved at the base of the Lady of the Torch, words from the pen of another woman by the name of Emma Lazarus. The words are as challenging as they are inviting: "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to be free

Shortly before he was killed Robert Kennedy wrote about

— of unnecessary, inexcusable poverty in this favored of nations - this knowledge erodes our ideal of America, our basic sense of who and what we are. It is, in the deepest sense of the word, demoralizing to all of us."

Anyone who agrees with Kennedy on this matter understands the meaning of that poem, which speaks its message from the Lady on the Isle. Poverty is not only something that pains the life of the poor, it is something that diminishes the identity of all Americans. Freedom is about a whole lot more than firecrackers or parades or even crepe paper on bicycle wheels.

Real freedom is only partially personal, because as long as someone around me is not free then my nation is not free, and in so far as my nation is not free, I am at least somewhat enslaved. Justice denied to even one person in a society is a threat to the illusion of justice enjoyed by anyone in that society. Being a brave and loyal American is about more than a willingness to join the parade and cheer about going abroad to fight for freedom. It is also joining a parade that marches for the freedom of those among us who do not have it because they do not have what we sing about and what we wave flags about.

Whether we wave a flag or watch the fireworks may not be nearly as important as whether we take the time to reflect within ourselves and share with our children on the collective reality of what freedom and justice are really all about.

Perhaps if they grow up more aware of who the huddled masses are and how important it is to welcome them into the circle of freedom and the taste of justice. they may help to create a nation in which more people have reason to put red, white and blue crepe papers in the spokes of their bicy-full month of summer, is upon us. Hot. Humid. Oppressive. These are just a few of the adjectives used to describe the seventh month of the year; the month Julius Caesar modestly BULLOCK named himself. Another thought should also cross the mind of the prudent: sunscreen.

In reality, sunscreen should have crossed your mind two months ago, for the May sun has as much potential for producing a severe sunburn as the July sun. The higher the altitude, the more direct the sunlight and the greater damage the sun can produce.

Consider: the altitude of the sun on July 15 at "noon" (actually 1:40 p.m. EDT) will be 69 degrees above the horizon. This will be 24 days after June 21, which was the longest day of the year and the official start of summer, when the sun was at its highest.

Well, 24 days before the start of summer, on May 28, the sun's altitude at "noon" was also 69 degrees. The difference is in May the sun was gaining altitude. while in July it is losing it.

The culprit in producing sunburn is ultraviolet (UV) light; light that is invisible to the eye, but very efficient at cooking exposed flesh. Scientists have identified two kinds of ultraviolet light, unimaginatively known as UV-A and UV-B.

New studies seem to indicate that UV-A light is a more severe hazard than its UV-B cousin; UV-A seems to be present year-round. and its intensity does not depend on the sun's altitude or the victim's latitude. Consequently some scientists are beginning to think that it would be a good idea to wear sunscreen all the time! (On the other hand, other scientists claim sunscreen inhibits the body's internal self-defense mechanism; the release of pigment that shows up on the skin as a sun 'tan.'')

Lest you think that the hazards of the sun are greatly exaggerated, consider Australia, the Land

Down Under. This continent. which apreads across the Tropic of Capricorn, has earned the dubious distinction as the "Skin Cancer Capital" of the world. The "sun worshippers" of Australia are coming down with melanoma at an alarming rate. Meanwhile, back in Michigan, the night sky in July will offer a variety of celestial sights: all five of the naked-eye planets will be visible; the moon, Venus, Aldebaran and the Pleiades star cluster will form a beautiful grouping in mid-month, and there will be a meteor shower, albeit a weak one. Mercury, Venus and Saturn will be morning planets; Mars and Jupiter will be visible after sunset.

The bright orange-red star nine degrees to the right of the moon on the evening of July 1 will be Antares, the "heart" of Scorpius the scorpion. By the end of the month the moon will be passing this star for a second time.

Full Moon officially will occur at 7:45 p.m. on July 3. The moon will be located opposite the sun, will rise in the southeast shortly before the sun sets in the northwest, and will be visible all night.

The moon reflects the light of the sun, and when it is opposite the sun it is fully lighted.

The July full moon was often called the Thunder Moon or Hay Moon by Native American Indians. The full moon is often blamed for a variety of maladies, however causing melanoma is not one of them.

The earth will be at aphelion (maximum distance from the sun) on July 4. We will be separated by 152,091,000 kilometers (94,504,966 miles). It is surprising to some people to learn that the northern hemisphere has its warmest weather when we are at our greatest distance from the sun. (We are at our closest in January, which is when the southern hemisphere has summer.) It is the tilt of the earth's axis, not its distance from the sun, that is responsible for the seasons and temperature. Raymond Bullock is the former coordinator of the observatory and planetarium at the Cranbrook Institute of Science, Bloomfield Hills. He now works for a Troy laser firm which specializes in displays and special effects.

Michigan Eyecare Institute. Eye Specialists with a Vision.

As founders of The Michigan Eyecare Institute, Dr. William Myers and Dr. Mark Rubinstein have been at the forefront of ophthalmologic breakthroughs.

Dr. Myers is the first ophthalmologist currently practicing in Michigan to utilize Radial Keratotomy — the breakthrough procedure to correct nearsightedness.

In addition Drs. Myers and Rubinstein were the first ophthalmologists in the state to develop or utilize:

YAG laser surgery for treatment of secondary cataracts.

Nova Curve lens, designed especially for the YAG laser surgery.

Excimer laser surgery for treatment of glaucoma.

Drs. Myers and Rubinstein conduct courses in surgery and have lectured on their state-of-the-art surgical techniques to other physicians throughout North America, Europe, Russia and the Far East. If you are nearsighted, farsighted, or suffer from cataracts or glaucoma, The Michigan Eyecare Institute can help.

Doll magazine tracks a booming form of art

f you think dolls are just kid stuff these days,

Most still are manufactured simply to delight a child, of course. But a fast-growing number are considered world-class works of art - and are often accompanied by price tags equally classy.

But — tony price tags or no — it appears that the number of serious doll art collectors throughout the world is growing like Topsy.

Not surprisingly, numerous books, magazines and other periodicals have sprung up to reflect and support this far-flung interest.

One of the leaders in the field, Contemporary Doll Magazine, is headquartered at Scott Publications in Livonia. Originally founded by Ernie and Lois Scott more than 30 years ago, the company was bought by Muskegon educator Robert Keeson in 1983; CDM debuted seven years later, with 3,000 subscribers. Today, the subscription list runs to approximately 15,000, with overall readership estimated at more than 35,000.

Wide-ranging content

"At CDM. our mission is to promote and discuss the contemporary doll market and what is being made today on every level," says managing editor Barbara Campbell.

"Our readers are doll collectors and dollmakers everywhere. Generally, they're well-educated, with a fair amount of disposable income. They're mostly women — although there are some men who read CDM — and most readers are between 35

A great amount of interest in dolls and doll col lecting is evident throughout Michigan, says Campbell. (Reflecting this marked interest, at least four doll shows already are scheduled for July in Michigan.)

"Riki Schaffer, whose doll shop is in West Bloomfield, is responsible for starting and supporting much of the interest in original dolls in Michigan," Campbell says, adding that one intensely committed individual often "gets the ball rolling" in a given area and provides a support system for interest there. (The Riki Schaffer Gallery, dealing in one-of-a-kind dolls, is at The Boardwalk, 6897 Orchard Lake Road.)

According to Campbell, the ball got rolling in the U.S. about 15 years ago when Chicagoan Tom Boland, an artist's representative, discovered the unique dolls of Israeli dollmaker Anna Avigail Brahms in a Paris gallery. Encouraged by Boland, Brahms brought her work to the U.S. in 1980 and set up a studio near Boston. A kind of "doll mania" developed rather quickly here for her finely detailed, dreamy-eyed "ladies," and the doll art industry in America was on its way.

Even if you think you have little or no interest in dolls, an issue of CDM can be a joy to behold and a kind of work of art in itself. For other artists, photographers, crafters, designers or popular culture buffs, it can hold special appeal.

The colorful, glossy monthly contains a lively mix of artists, profiles, photo stories on recent conventions and shows all over the world, an upcoming events calendar, a money management column, plus information on new products and ser-

But the artwork and outstanding photography form the real heart of CDM. A black-and-white photo section called "Debut" is devoted to the work of up-and-coming doll artists. Each issue also offers a full-sized, pull-out color poster of a contemporary doll-of-the-month. CDM's "Gallery of Contemporary Dolls" is the publication's centerpiece, spotlighting the artistry of today's foremost dollmakers.

Highlights of the upcoming August issue include a profile on world-renowned artist, Lisa Lichtenfels, whose stunningly lifelike work once caused her to be pulled over by police after an unnerved bystander reported she had stuffed a "dead body" into her car trunk. Her cloth dolls, priced at $1,200 to $5,000 and collected by such rich-and-famous types as actress Demi Moore, are highly labor-intensive, sometimes requiring as much as 18 hours to complete a single, carefully-

Another highlight: A story on Pennsylvania artist Linda Horn, who creates vividly costumed, Victorian dolls from cornhusks. (While the dolls from her family's cornfield don't cost an arm and a leg, they do go for as much as $3,000.)

The Gallery" features a bespectacled porcelain doll named "Alvin," crafted in a limited edition by Jackson artist Melissa McCroy.

The issue goes on sale at selected newsstands. early next week. For back issues or subscription information, call 1-800-458-8237.

Seasons sway Garden City painter

m Winter, spring, summer and autumn bloom on the canvases of Norma McQueen in a retrospective of works continuing through July 30 in Livonia City Hall.

By Linda Ann Chomin Special Writer

From winter to spring, summer to fall, Norma McQueen's paintings revel in the changing of sea-

The Garden City artist exhibits 45 works in a "Retrospective." The Livonia Arts Commission-sponsored show continues through July 30 in the Livonia City Hall lobby, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

"Just before spring, I start to get fidgety.' McQueen said. "In fall, I like to do fall colors, the fall leaves. Acrylic dominates the show, which spans a period of 14 years. But oil, watercolor, pastel and colored pencil also are represented. Landscape, floral, still life and animals cheer the viewer in this colorful display focusing on nature.

"I'm appreciating nature more as I mature. I'm looking at the veins on the leaves like on the caladium; the colors, the values, shapes and tex tures," McQueen said. "You kind of take things for granted when you're young. As you mature, you begin to appreciate God's creation."

McQueen's garden serves as a major influence on her painting. Tiger lilies, white petunias, pansies, willows and money trees offer a summer full of inspiration. "It takes me a long time, all summer to paint them," McQueen said, "but it doesn't matter. It's the end result that counts.'

Large, lush leaves found in the rain forests of Martinique dominate "Caribbean," a 36- by 48-inch acrylic on canvas. On a cruise last winter, McQueen snapped dozen of reference photographs, which she then clipped around the canvas to study while painting. "I'm impressed by background colors and contrast," McQueen said.

"When something catches my eyes, I study it and make notes, sometimes on the back of a business card or whatever I have with me.

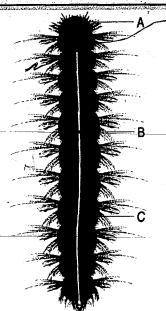

McQueen took her first oil painting class 14 years ago. Not until 1990, however, could she pursue painting seriously. It was then she decided to take an early retirement after working 37 years in the admin-intrative offices of Henry Ford Hospital in Troy.

Initially, McQueen studied the basics of painting and drawing with Westland artist Saundra Wood, an art instructor at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. Since then, she has taken workshops in life drawing with Howard Weingarden of Farmington Hills, oil painting with Doug McCrumb of Livonia and portraits in pastel with Laurel Raisanen of

OF A SERIES

It started more than a century ago when an amateur entomologist brought the gypsy moth from Europe to America. His grand scheme cross the silk moth with the gypsy moth to create a new silk fiber. That plan went awry, but not before gypsy moths escaped his laboratory and a new scourge was born the defoliation of American forests by the gypsy moth caterpillar. 'We can't eradicate the gypsy moth

— it's here to stay. We have to learn to manage it and live with it," said Dr. Debbie McCullough, assistant professor of entomology at Michigan State University. We're on the western leading edge of infestation. It will probably spread north and west - areas like Cadillac, Baldwin, Traverse City and Presque Isle. It's not just a forest pest. It's also flaring in southeastern Michigan urban areas."

Many Oakland County communities have infestation problems and the moths are winging their way into Wayne County.

Winning entries in the fifth annual Spring Elegance art show at Nankin Mills in Westland were announced at the event June 6.

Twenty artists and crafters participated in the event, hosted by Friends of Nankin Mills in conjunction with the Wayne County Parks Division. Westland artist Saundra Weed served as juror. First place in the crafts category was awarded to Jim Hicks of Westland, second to Kathy Myers of Westland, third to Cheryl Jewell of Redford and an honorable mention to Gladys Price

First place for fine art went to Al Bauso of Livonia, second to Julie Giordano of Northville, third to Mary Peters of Westland and an honorable mention to Barbara Gosney of Garden City.

The name of Westland artist Laurel Raisanen was inadvertently misspelled last week in a profile previewing her artwork in Canton's Liberty. Fest June 26-27.

Detroiters to show artwork in Livonia

Handschu, sculptor, and Virgil Grady, painter, will exhibit their latest works of art in "Imageination" at the Livonia Civic Center Library Art Gallery, 32777 Five Mile, Livonia, from July 5 to Aug. 7.

Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

A public reception for the artists is scheduled for 7-9 p.m. Monday, July 12, in the library atrium. Featured at the recep tion will be piano music by Detroit jazz artist Kenn Cox.

The Livonia Arts Commission received a $580 matching grant from the Detroit Council for the Arts and the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs to help with show Handschu will exhibit six sculptures of wood and stone, including "Forest Birth' and "Bong of the Butternut Wom-He has exhibited at the Detroit Focus Gallery, the Kalamazoo Institute of Art, City Art Gallery, Detroit, and Swords Into Plowshares Peace and Art Center, Detroit.

Grady's paintings are mostly personal interpretations of jazz music as performed by top American musicians. He has exhibited extensively in the Detroit area, including the Scarab Club and the City Art Gallery. Paintings are included in private and corporate collections. Grady studied art at the Layton School of Art, Milwaukee.

A "whittle" duck: Livonia resident Ron Morin will display his wood carvings with other Livonia Wood Carvers Club members in the Livonia Civic Center Library showcases.

Woodwork

Carvers to trim library's showcases

By Janice Tigar-Kramer Special Writer

Wood carvings on display at the Livonia Civic Center Library will give spectators a glimpse of what the Livonia Wood Carvers Club has to offer later this summer.

The exhibit, in the first- and second-floor showcases, includes more than 50 handcrafted pieces made by 22 of the club's 250 members. It runs Friday, July 2, to Friday, July 30, during regular library hours. The library is on Five Mile, east of Farmington Road.

After the display, carvers will take their wares to the 18th annual Livonia Wood Carving Show, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 7-8, at Eddie Edgar Sports Arena, 33841 Lyndon at Farmington Road, Livonia. The free show, sponsored by Livonia Parks and Recreation, will draw 140 local and outof-state carvers. It's the club's biggest yearly event, with 46 categories of wood art, demonstrations and awards.

The library show's just a preview of what will be at the big show. We want people to see both," said Ron Morin, a club director and instructor.

Library visitors will get a look at rough-cut carvings fashioned in traditional folk-art style and "finished" pieces that are sanded, stained or painted.

The display, arranged by the Livonia Arts Commission and the Livonia Civic Center Library, includes lifelike animals, miniatures, figures, children's toys, wildlife, birds and abstracts. Pieces are carved or whittled in mahogany, walnut, butternut, white pine, basswood and other woods.

Observerland exhibitors include Pat Howell, Tom Centofanti, Conrad Schwab, Louis Moretto, Jim Beresford, Ron Hill, Tom Roucoli, Nick Zlonkevich, Barney Robinson, Pat Lea and Ron Morin, all of Livonia; Gerald Grusendorf, Bob Donakowski, Grace Dennis and Bob Brooks, all of Redford Township; and Dave Geistler of Garden City

The quality of the woodworking is excellent," said Livonia arts commissioner Lee Alanskas. "The work represents various carving styles. It illustrates the carver's ability and artistic interpretation.

Morin, a retired toolmaker, started wood carving "in a big way" in 1982 after buying a pocket knife from a friend.

'He gave me a blank piece of white pine and I carved a dog with dimension. I kept on going from there. It's a real turn-on," said Morin, who makes his own carving instruments and teaches other carvers how to sharpen tools.

He carves mostly realistic wildlife and miniatures (some from peach pits) and an occasional abstract. His carved robin is on permanent display in the Livonia Civic Center Library.

Using a chainsaw, he recently carved a two-foot bow ornament for his great-nephew's sailboat/treehouse. The adults liked it so much, they brought the piece inside to use as a home accessory. 'There's no end to creativity and what you can carve," he Morin's wife, Rita, said many showgoers can't keep their hands off the realistic work: "In an open show, people need to touch the animals because they can't believe the painted

Bob Brooks, Livonia Wood Carvers Club president, took up carving 12 years ago when his television broke. Today, he belongs to six carving clubs. He's also president of the newly founded Michigan Wood Carvers Association, which is trying to change the term "wood carving" to "wood sculp-ture." He'd also like to see woodworking nationally recognized as fine art.

'With my group work and paperwork, I hardly have time for carving," said Brooks, who's best known his wood-burning art and carved dogs and songbirds.

Livonia Wood Carvers Club formed about 20 years ago after a handful of male carvers and whittlers got together at the Livonia Senior Citizen Center. Today, its diverse membership includes youths, senior citizens, families and husband-wife carvers from around the area.

The group meets at 7 p.m. Tuesdays and 9 a.m. Thursdays at the Livonia Senior Citizen Center, Five Mile and Farmington Road.

Said Brooks: "We're a social, artistic and informative group. We're a tight-knit bunch, but we want people to stop in and sit down. We'll show you how to carve. We're one group that likes sharing secrets."

"Caterpillar hair can cause skin irritation," McCullough said. "Insect droppings can get real messy. (Healthy) trees can take some defoliation, but people panic when they see it.'

counties are in-Thirty-one volved in the Michigan Department of Agriculture's suppresion program. Others do biological control. Cool weather slows down the cycle. Warmer weather makes the blue and red dotted caterpillars thrive.

"More damage occurs later in the summer," McCullough said.

Low-level populations are starting to appear in the Upper Peninsula. "People transport the egg masses on their vehicles. They take the egg masses home on their cars or campers," she said. Specialists try to determine the leading edge of the infestation and the transition zone. In the transition zone, extensive trapping and surveying occurs.

"One new option includes reproducing the female sex chemical (which attracts males for mating) into beads and flakes to distribute everywhere with the idea of disrupting the male," McCullough said.

Another option is introducing a tiny wasp parasite into the gypsy moth egg masses, with the end result being the host caterpillar implodes. "Like the movie 'Alien'," McCullough said.

Predatory beetles are a natural enemy, but they can't keep pace with the resilient gypsy moth.

"The gypsy moth is going to be here," McCullough said. "I don't think there's going to be a silver bullet. Making and keeping our forests healthy will mean less likelihood of infestation.'

Gypsy moths can affect local environmental balances. The forest makeup of New England is not the same now as it was when gypsy moths first invaded a century ago. All of New England and the mid-Atlantic states have been affected. Moths have been found on recreational vehicles and in campgrounds as far west and south as Wisconsin, Washington, Iowa, Cálifornia, Alabama, Georgia and Missouri.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the affected states are using several techniques to fight the infestation:

■ the use of sex lure traps to keep track of pest population buildups and spread.

quarantines to prevent movement of infested goods and materials that might spread the pest to new areas.

■ the treatment of campgrounds in infested areas to prevent hitchhiking on recreational vehi-

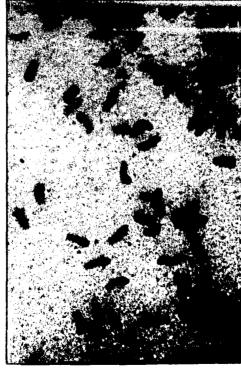

III limited ground and aerial treatments where necessary to protect valuable recreation and timber rethe importation, rearing and release of predators and parasites.

mextensive research and development projects to find additional means for suppressing and managing the gypsy moth.

Usually, these programs are a cooperative effort between local government, the Michigan Department of Agriculture and pest management firms.

"The gypsy moth is here to stay," McCullough said.

Tiny caterpillars: A one-inch measure from a standard ruler shows how tiny gypsy moth caterpillars are just after the eggs hatch in early May. They linger around the egg cluster for several days, then climb trees or other objects, trailing silken threads as they move. When the larvae reach the top of a tree, they don't feed but drop on silken threads and are dispersed by wind.

Livonia crafter hooked on rug-related art

His recent undertaking is a 12-color hooked rug of the United States that measures 4by-7 feet. It hangs beside another of Hooker's finished proj-— a 5,045-piece jigsaw puzzle of a German castle.

Hooker finished the U.S. map in about three months. It's mostly done in primary colors and includes an inset of Alaska and Hawaii. He made a pattern from an enlarged National Geographic map, then started hooking from West to East.

"I just have to keep busy," said Hooker, 75, who's surprisingly dexterous in spite of arthritis in his right hand. "Rugmaking is a winter hobby. When the gardening season's over, this is what I do inside."

Though Hooker's well ... hooked on the rug art, he insists his interest in the craft has nothing to do with his Welsh surname.

The 29-year Livonia resident started rugmaking 15 years ago when his wife, Alice, made her first rug. Since then, he's made several rugs for their home and has given many hooked crafts as gifts. He has even finished projects for hobbyists who run out of patience.

He tackles every rug like an assembly project," said Alice Hooker. "I hook one row at a time. Cliff takes four or five at

Faith and passion: Hometowners sell it better

BY GERALD FRAWLEY STAFF WRITER

Hometown Realtors - can they sell a home better than a Realtor who lives elsewhere?

Owner/broker Joanne Scott of Century 21 J. Scott Inc. in Garden City thinks the hometown Realtor has a decided advantage over an imported counterpart.

The big reason? Faith and passion for the community.

"I really do believe (it's better to be a Realtor in one's own community)," she said.

Realtors don't just sell houses, they sell homes and communities, Scott said. In order to sell a community, a Realtor really needs to

"I wouldn't be here if I didn't have a lot of faith in Garden City.

A realtor should be a booster for a community, Scott said, and a person who lives in an area is better equipped to know a region. Scott said it's not impossible for an outsider to know a region, but the hometown realtor has a decided advantage.

"If someone asks how are the schools. I can say I have four children and they all went through Garden City schools and they are all working and productive.

Scott added she also has grandchildren in Garden City Schools.

office live in Garden City, she said and while she doesn't make it a condition of employment, their residency is no accident.

John Hannett, president of John Hannett Inc., said the hometown realtor has a distinct competitive advantage over other "(Hometown realtors) know the nuances of their own area.

"House values change from one block to the next; there are little areas within an area that command more money than others," he said.

A hometown realtor also has an advantage when it comes to listsocial connections and word of mouth, a hometown realtor is much more likely to know when a homeowner is considering selling:

A lot of real estate listings are based on referrals, Hannett add-

Betsy Lassanske, Prudential Great Lakes Realty vice president of corporate and associate services, said when she holds orientation for people considering real estate as a career, she tells them out front it's best to work near your home.

'That doesn't necessarily mean in your own city," she added. A "community" may span city borsimilar people live.

The reason for this is simple: A person who is just starting in the real estate business is learning a new career and can't afford the additional worry of learning a new community.

"It's easier to translate your enthusiasm for a community if you live there," she said:

Prospective buyers constantly probe realtors for information on businesses, entertainment, recreational opportunities and other points of interest to help them decide if they want to buy a certain house.

A hometown Realtor can more readily answer such questions, she said.

Lassanske said not being a hometown Realtor is not necessarily bad, however.

"I wouldn't say you shouldn't list your house with a Realtor because they don't live there."

The passion and boosterism that a hometown Realtor brings to a job is always good, but it can be duplicated by a Realtor from another town, she said.

'If a home buyer is sold on a person's professionalism, where the realtor lives will not matter as

What can you do when condo developer abuses power?

Our condominium association is in a bind because the developer has sold enough units to keep him in control of our hotel/ condo. Thus, we the purchasers have no effective administrative authority over the operation of the associathe legal and political aspects of tion. Plus, we are paying an unthe condo project and find out reasonable management fee to the developer's affiliate company and we're paying a 50-percent fee for rentals of the units to the developer, who threatens to create problems for any coowner who does not use his

The developer's threat to seek reprisals against co-owners who do not use him are both illegal and unconscionable. The co-owners who are being affected by the developer's abuses should band together, retain counsel and, if necessary, pursue the developer with all legal and administrative remedies available.

Someone in our subdivision wants to open a garage business within the sub. The member claims that our restrictions are not enforceable because other residents have similar businesses. Can we legally stop this person?

Chances are you can stop the garage business even though other businesses are being conducted in the sub, as long as the other businesses are service-related and not noticeable to passersby. Courts don't seem to have a problem with businesses that are conducted from within the confines of the condo or home without any detriment to the rest of the sub.

It would be a good idea to 48025.

MAKE THE MOVE NOW!!

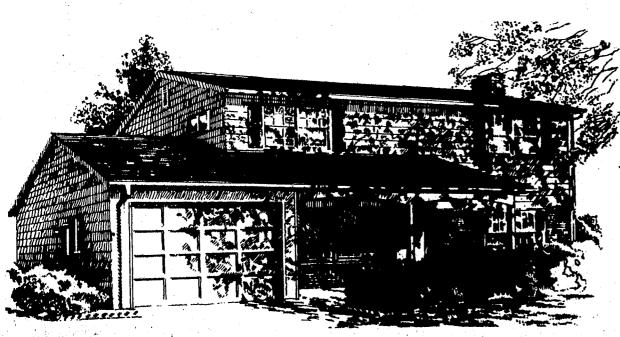

THERE'S NO BETTER TIME TO BUY

- · The selection is excellent.
- · Low interest rates are available.
- · There are many financing options available.

Go ahead, make the move. Now is the right time to buy a home.

NOW is the right time to Buy a Home!

Purchasing a home has always been a wise decision, but current market conditions are making it even more attractive to buy now.

EXCELLENT FINANCING IS AVAILABLE NOW

Interest rates are lower, and mortgage lenders are offering a wide variety of financing options. Low interest rates mean you can get more for your money.

- · 30-year fixed mortgages are still available as well as many other financing alternatives.
- First time buyers are encouraged to purchase now through financing packages offering small down payments.

YOUR HOME IS YOUR BEST INVESTMENT

Purchasing a home is the best way to build a solid financial foundation. A home not only provides you with warmth and comfort, it also serves as a secure investment.

- · Today, homes in the area continue to be a wise investment.
- Equity in your home can be used as collateral, thus providing you with additional financial security.
- Home ownership provides you with a sizable tax advantage because interest paid on mortgages is fully deductible. Property taxes can also be deducted.

Building a business park

Plymouth-based R.A. DeMattia Company, along with Morgan-Mitsubishi Development and Signature Associates, is developing a 393-acre Washtenaw Business Park in Ypsilanti, located off I-94 at Huron Street. Already in place on the site are a McDonald's, the Radisson Hotel and a golf course. The park will feature lots on both sides of Huron. There are currently 23 platted acres with three available lots on the east side zoned commercial. There are 72 platted acres on the west side (12 lots) zoned light industrial, with some retail near the entrance. More than 100 Realtors showed up last Tuesday for re-introduction ceremonies.

Remodelers certified

Robert Budman of Budman's Home Improvements in Southfield, John Glister of A-1 Construction and Remodeling in Warren and Gary Burtka of Burtka Brothers in Allen Park have gained Certified Remodeler status from the National Association of Remodeling Industry. To gain certification, the trio passed an eight-hour written exam covering 18 different technical and business management areas. They also have to have served the industry for a minimum of five vears.

Building Trade School

Dennis Green Advertising of Farmington Hills has been appointed by the American Building Trade School (ABT) to handle its public relations. ABT operates four schools in the metro Detroit area that train unemployed and homeless inner city men and women in building skills such as painting, roofing, dry walling, masonry and rough carpentry skills. Dennis Green's initial assignment will be to prepare television spots and collateral materials.

Home building workshops

Builder Jim Nawrot from Livonia will be presenting two free introductory home building seminars in the area. He will be in Bloomfield Hills on July 8 and in Livonia on July 11. He also has scheduled seminars in Flint (July 10) and Ann Arbor (July 13). These workshops are four-hour consumer-based educational programs designed to answer all relative home building questions and teach new and experienced home purchasers how to effectively deal with subdivision builders and contractors. For times and locations, call Nawrot at 313-462-0944, or mail to 16380 Aldrich Ct., Livonia, 48154.

What a view: Luxury condominiums at Woodlands at Deer Creek in Plymouth Township back up to a 17-acre wooded nature preserve. Said builder Bill Steiner: "Take a look out there. That, in essence, is a virgin strand of timber. It would have been a crime to go in there and tear it out."

A 'View-tiful' concept

■ A Plymouth Township couple has succeeded with a rather novel condominium development concept: Less is more more attractive and more marketable.

By Doug Funke Staff Writer

Bill Steiner and Carol Bond, owners of Deercreek Building Co. in Plymouth Township, found that with their condominium development -Woodlands at Deer Creek - fewer is

The husband-and-wife team plans to build 20 luxury units on just over seven acres abutting a wooded nature preserve at the north end of the subdivision off Powell Road.

They're building only 20 units even though the zoning code allows up to

Fewer upscale detached condos would better fit the existing neighborhood of some 100 large, single-family homes priced at $300,000 to $400,000, the couple concluded.

"We felt what went in here was very important for the overall sub and caliber of houses," Steiner said. "We went backward, so to speak, but we feel we improved.

"These lots all stayed vacant until they saw what we were going to be doing," Bond said of nearby single family houses. "We felt it (32 condos) would hurt single family.'

Condominium prices start at $275,000. There's a $25,000 premium for lots that back directly to the The 17-acre woods was another consideration in the decision to actually build fewer condos than was al-"The amount of stripping for 32 required that we'd have to take a great number of trees out," Steiner said. In retrospect, the developer is pleased with how the condos turned out even though Deercreek wasn't the first choice to build them.

Builders stay optimistic despite flat 1st quarter

Home building activity through the first three months of this year remained relatively flat, but there were signs of a pick-up in early

Single-family housing permits issued January through March in southeastern Michigan almost mirrored the activity level during the first quarter of 1992.

Some 2,610 units were permitted in Oakland, Wayne, Macomb, Washtenaw (Ann Arbor), Monroe, St. Clair, Lapeer, Lenawee, Livingston and Genesee (Flint) counties compared to 2,580 units last year, an increase of 1.1 percent.

The three-month figure for 1993 ranked southeast Michigan 15th nationally just behind Riverside-San Bernardino, Calif. (2,662 permits), and just ahead of San Francisco (2,543).

The numbers were compiled by U.S. Housing Markets, a Livoniabased research publication of Lomas Mortgage USA, a national servicer of residential mortgages.

First-quarter activity here also trend, U.S. Housing Markets reported. almost mirrored the national

Builders throughout the United States pulled some 201,800 single family permits during the first three months, a 1.5 percent gain over the comparable period in

However, the pace quickened in April, the publication reported.

Buyers swarmed out of the their winter hibernation and pushed new home sales to a monthly rate not experienced since July of 1989," said Gary H. Kell, executive vice president for Lomas Mortgage.

"It was the best April sales rate since 1987," Kell said. "The buying explosion suggested that consumers may be dropping their defensive posture.

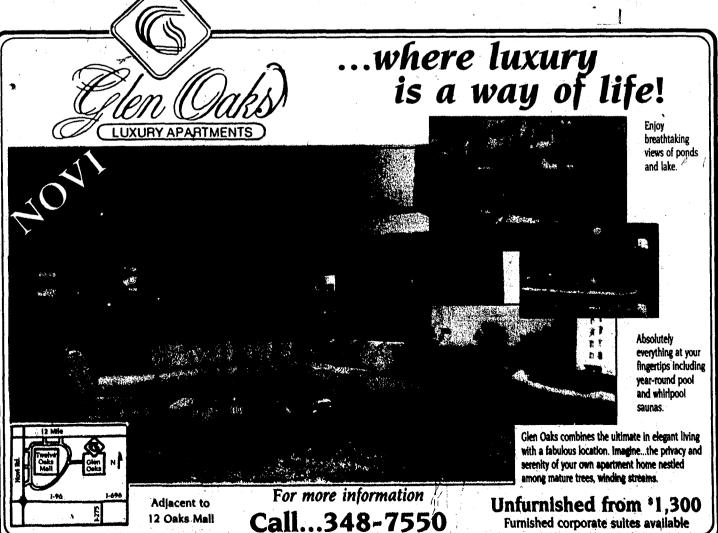

'Much of housing's resurgence in the past year and a half has come from the pent up aspirations of first-time buyers who were frustrated during the late 1980s by double-digit interest rates and inflated housing prices.

"That backlog of entry-level demand has been largely satisfied, and continued progress in the housing market depends on strength in the job market - new jobs being created and existing jobs made more secure by an expanding economy," Kell said.

Fred Capaldi, a Rochester Hills builder and president of the Builders Association of Southeastern-Michigan, said he also noticed an increase in building activity here in April.

"I think what really hurt us this year was bad weather - cold, snowy then rain," he said.

fashion like those on the inside, but there's definitely something new in the way homeowners are mixing paint for their homes. The key word is more - more color and more adventurous combinations.

"It used to be that an exterior color scheme was two colors: a body color and a trim," says Patricia Verlodt, president of Color Marketing Group, an association that forecasts color trends. "Then we started seeing people using three colors and now it's four.

"If there are 20 houses on the street that look just like yours," says Verlodt, "you can set yourself apart by tasteful use of color. You want to be unusual without being outlandish, different without being garish.

Even a color novice can put together a distinctive color scheme. To avoid a garish look, remember that a livelier palette doesn't necessarily mean a brighter one.

"Neutrals will always be the heart of the palette for the exterior," she says, "because direct sunlight has the obvious effect of making colors look brighter." Even accent colors need to be slightly muddied so they don't become neon when the sun shines.

Louis Aubert, a New Orleans designer and colorist and a member of the American Society of Interior Designers, who describes himself as "a rabid color fan," has made a specialty of helping homeowners become more adventurous with color. He agrees homeowners are getting bolder with their use of exterior

"People are becoming much more aware of their homes, and they are beginning to embrace color," says Aubert, "In older neighborhoods, especially in the inner city, it's a badge of honor to paint your home with several colors. It shows your commitment to Create the illusion of more space in your kitchen

If you would like to squeeze a little more living and working space out of your kitchen, here are some ideas from Country Kitchen Ideas magazine that may work:

Let your table do double duty as an island work surface and as a spot for eating.

A monochromatic color scheme makes a kitchen look bigger.

Keep the color palette light (pastels, ecru, and white) and limited (two or three tones). The space-expanding effect is enhanced if the cabinets, counters and walls are all the same color. ■ Direct the eye upward with vertical lines in the cabinets and wall treatments, or create interest on top of the cabinets. Vaulted ceilings also pull the eye upward.

■ Eliminate clutter from countertops, walls and floors. Select simple patterns for surface materials.

Use elements that make the most of space: window treatments that don't extend beyond the window frame, recessed lighting fixtures and appliances that align flush with cabi-

■ Create an illusion of space with open shelves instead of upper cabinets or use glass-front doors. Be careful not to clutter these shelves.

Replace an interior wall with a peninsula and overhead cabinets. The peninsula adds storage and counter space, plus it opens up the room.

Annex nearby space gone to waste. A pantry can fit inside a cleaning closet. An appliance niche can bump out into an attached Reflective surfaces, such as metal and mirrors, make a space seem larger.

If you're interested in trying out new col, ors for your home, Aubert shares advice on how to get started.

"Look at your house objectively," he says. "What are its best features and its worst features?

Too many homeowners, he says, accent mechanical features such as rain gutters and downspouts. "Those are things you want to he says. Gutters, service entries, even an unattractive garage door will seem to disappear if you paint them the same background color as the house.

On the other hand, attractive details like nice moldings over the window - will come alive if you paint them a contrasting color, even if the contrast is subdued.

Before choosing colors, Aubert suggests that you study photos of your house from all sides,-including detail shots of the front door, dormer windows, gables and other special-interest areas.

"Photos make you focus," he says. "Look at them carefully. Look at the givens - exposed stone or brickwork and the colors in those materials."

It's a matter of personal preference, he says, whether you go for a monochromatic look, with subtle changes in color or high contrast. Both can be exciting. For example, on one shotgun-style cottage, Aubert achieved a subtle, playful effect with gray body color, white trim and shutters painted a grayed mauve. The porch decking was striped in two shades of gray with mauve undertones. On another small cottage of similar character, he went for a more high-energy scheme, counterpointing pink body color against white trim and lavender and teal ac-

Aubert recommends painting samples directly on the house — not on plywood — and putting a patch on each side to see how it is affected by light from different directions.

Capaldi predicted in January that housing starts this year would approach 13,000 in an area more compact than that surveyed by U.S. Housing Markets.

It's still do-able, he said, even though some would-be buyers are hedging their bets.

"It seems to me to be a little bit of cautiousness," Capaldi said. 'Maybe they're concerned about what the tax law might do, what the direction of the economy might be. People are very interested. They're getting all their numbers together, thinking.

"I don't know what it's going to take to make up their minds.'
