Chapter 1. Legacy map

Use a legacy map when you want to see patterns in your data by geography. You can use a legacy map when you are not connected to the internet.

Your data asset must contain geographical data, such as countries, states, or provinces. To determine if a column is mappable, IBM® Cognos Analytics analyzes a sample of 2000 values in the location column, looking for recognizable place names. If 80% or more are recognized as map values, Cognos Analytics produces a legacy map.

For example, you have four countries in your location column: Brazil, China, India, and Russia. The typo for India means that only 75% of the values are recognizable place names and you will not see a legacy map as a starting point. But if you have five countries and one has a typo in it, you will see a map.

For example, this legacy map visualization shows revenue by retailer country with the darker color indicating higher revenue.

For more info, see “Supported values for legacy maps” on page 3.

If you don't see a legacy map as a recommended starting point for your data, look at your location column and see if one of these items applies:

Continents

We support all continent names in the languages listed in “Supported languages for legacy maps” on page 2.

Countries

We support all country names in the languages listed in “Supported languages for legacy maps” on page 2.

We support some common variants, such as "United States" and "United States of America".

We support ISO two and three letter abbreviations.

Provinces

Countries are divided into smaller administrative divisions; different countries have different names for this smaller division, such as state, department, county, municipality, and so on. In Cognos Analytics, we call the smaller divisions "provinces".

We support province names in the local language only, using the Latin alphabet. For example, Xian instead of the Chinese character.

We support ISO codes and short names for some provinces. For example, US-TX, TX, Tex., Texas; CA-ON, Ont., Ontario.

We support variations with and without accents. For example, Quebec and Québec.

Counties

We don't support counties outside the United States.

We have limited support for counties inside the United States.

Ambiguous data

If the column heading for the location column is misleading, such as "Employee Name", we might not use that column for mapping your data.

Look at the values in your data. Numerous misspellings will cause problems.

Check for and resolve ambiguous locations in your data file and then replace the data in the data asset.

For example, Georgia is the name of a country and the name of a state in the United States.

- If Georgia appears in a column that contains American states, a map of the United States is displayed.
- If Georgia appears in a column that contains countries, a world map or a map of Asia is displayed, depending on the other values in the column.
- If Georgia is in a column that contains both states and countries, no map is displayed. You can fix this by splitting the column into two, one for countries and one for states. Make sure the state appears as "US Georgia".

A legacy map is not displayed in the following cases:

- The list contains both countries and provinces, countries and states, or regions and parts of a region. For example, US, Texas, Florida; UK, Scotland, England; Europe, France, Germany; Florida, Miami-Dade, Broward, Sarasota.
- The list contains abbreviations that can be both countries or states. For example, AL, AR, CA, DE can be Alabama, Arkansas, California, Delaware or Albania, Argentina, Canada, Germany.

Supported languages for legacy maps

We support all continent and country names in the following list of languages. We also support local state and province names in their respective local languages for the languages on this list. For example, the name of the state of North Carolina in the United States is supported only in English. It is not supported in French as "Caroline du Nord" or in any other language.
